Coney Island Experiences Most Dire ful Results-New Jersey Low-lands All Under Water-Sever Gale Along the Sound.

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—A veritable hurricane has swept over this section of the country today, the wind blowing with terrific force, reaching at Sandy Hook a velocity of seventy-five miles per hour last night. The tides rose to a height of many feet greater than has been seen for years, and the waves all along the Atlantic coast swept in with a force that carried everything before them and did damage to the amount of many hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Sandy Hook and points along the Jersey coast felt the fury of the storm most of all. But Coney Island experienced, so far as has been learned.

The beaches were swept clean, pavilions were overturned and carried seaward, bathinghouses and board walks—everything not far inland on the famous island was torn up and piled high beyond the coast line or carried out to sea. At Brighton Beach, the stone walks in front of the hig hotel were under water. Hotel were laid waste, and the lower portions of the hotels flooded. Along the Jersey coast most of the damage done was to piers and to breakwaters. Preparations had been made, as forewarnings of the storm had been given some days before. As yet very little damage to shipping has been recorded, for, on account of the warningsc, many crafts delayed sailing, and others that had cleared returned for a safe anchorage.

The Brighton Beach race-track stables are flooded, and the horses have been removed to the stables along the boulevard. A rough estimate of the financial loss along Coney Island Beach places it at $200,000.

Hog Island during the afternoon added another big section to that portion which had previously gone to sea, and another such storm would wipe it and several other adjoining districts out of existence altogether.

The ferry-house, dock and pavillon of the Far Rockaway Improvement Company were totally wrecked. The Casino, the United States Hotel and the Tackapausha House and the Dolphin Hotel were among those buildings which had at least two feet of water on their ground floors.

GRAND TRUNK EMPLOYEES.

Much Dissatisfaction Exists Among Them Over Their Treatment.

TORONTO (Ont.,) Oct. 12.—There is considerable disasatisfaction among the employés of the Grank Trunk Rallway which may terminate in a strike. The men complain they are unjustly treated by the foremen and superintendents, ad that their complaints are not listened to.

The most serious point is at Stratford where orders were given on Saturday that the 700 employés there should work but forty-five hours a week instead of fifty hours as hitherto. If the employés at Toronto and other centers are placed under a similar regulation, some action will probably be taken by the men to have their wrong redressed.

more than labor wants to be idle. The man who has money wants that money to be earning something, and the only reason he does not put it out now is because he is afraid he will never get it back, or will get it back in a depreciated currency. And when he does not put it out, and it does not circulate, then there is no work. When you have idle men and idle money, distress and suffering prevail. Now, I do not know what you think about it, but I think you cannot have money too good. The money that will buy the most is the money you want, and what you want now is an opportunity to earn it. You cannot earn it through the mints, but through the mills, mines, factories and by honest toil. We can only do the best we knuw how in this world. We can only follow the path as God gives us the light.

IT WORE NO CLOTHES.

WHY THE BOSTON LIBRARY TRUS-TEES REJECTED A STATUE.

tor MacMonnies is Boxed Up and Left to the Gloom of a Cellar. Paris Was Hungry for It.

BOSTON, Oct. 12.—(Special Dispatch.) Boston has refused to accept a bronze bacchante by MacMonnies for the new public library. The statue is too suggestive of immorality and thrist for the Puritan town. At a meeting of the Art Commission Friday it was finally decided to reject it, and today Edward Robinson, curator of the Museum of Fine Arts, and secretary of the Art

Commission, sent the following minute to the trustees of the library:

"Voted, that the secretary be instructed to inform the trustees of the Public Library that, while recognising the remarkable technical merits of MacMonnies's statue of a bacchante as work of art, this commission does a work of art, this commission does not regard it as suited to the Public Library building."

This decision of the Art Commission is final, and the trustees must reject the gift. The statue is one of the best things the sculptor ever did. It is in bronze, seven feet tall, a nude figure of a woman. In her left arm she carries a child, while in her right hand, extend-ed high over her head, is a bunch of grapes. The woman is dancing, with a laugh on her face. The whole status is expressive of joy and freedom.

Paris thought so much of the statue when it was unable to get it that it had a replica made. The original, now in Boston, is owned by Charles F. Mcin Boston, is owned by Charles F. McKim, architect of the library. McKim bought the statute, and after he received it found he had no place in his house where he could place it. He therefore presented it to the museum of Boston's new library. The middle of the library building is a court, surrounded by a colonnade and it was Mcrounded by a colonnade, and it was Mc-Kim's design to have it set in the mid-dle of the court, where it could be seen to the best advantage. The statue was sent to Boston and exhibited. Immediately a hue and cry was raised by a large section of the enlightened inhabitants of the modern Athens. That the statue was beautiful and a masterly work of art, they all admitted, but it was sensual, immoral and totally unfit for young boys and girls to look at. There were a few who contested this idea, but the Puritans won the day. The statue was boxed up and remanded to the depths of the cellar of the library, where it

In so doing, counsel alluded to the most serious charges made by the Countess and subsequently retracted; touched upon the reflections cast upon H. A. At Sandy Hook, where even the breath of a breeze can be twisted into a gale, last night's blow was a howling hurricane. The waves broke higher than ever before, and at one time the old tower which incoming and outgoing ships signal, shook and tottered as though it would be blown over.

The storm was the most devastating that has visited Sea Isle City since the great storm of 1889, which was accompanied by a tidal wave. The streets were flooded and many hotels and cottages along the narrow strip of sand between Townsend and Corson's Inlet were wrecked or badly damaged. Last night the sea attacked the beach in front of the Brunswick Hotel, the finest structure on that portion of the coast. Today it completed its work. Early in the afternoon the front of the building began to sag. It dropped lower and lower as the waves beat up against it, and in the middle of the afternoon the structure fell in, a mass of rouns.

At Long Branch the new iron pier which many times during the day was shaken to its very foundation, so far has stood the test. It is thought it may go before morning, if the force of the waves is not lessened.
All day long the wind blew a raie of fifty miles at Asbury Park. High tide at noon seemed to be at the maximum. Hundreds of people lined the shores watching the destruction that came with every wave. Everything within reach of the waves was used as a battering ram to break down the structures on the beach. The great board walk was pounded to pieces in many places. From Deal Lake to the boundary line it is a complete wreck. The marble monument which marks the spot where the New Era went down in the early days of Asbury Park was undermined by the waves and toppled over into the sea. The Davis studio on the beach was caught by the waves and carried cutward and then shattered by the breakers. The beach is strewn with wreckage.

Both had hove to for several hours outside the bar waiting for a chance to cross. The steam station boat Alaska, with her complement of pilots had anchored all night under shelter of Sandy Hook, and made four unsuccessful attempts to return to her station between the lightships this morning. Each time the tall waves swept her deck and the flying spume shut off all sight from her captain. Finally, at 3:30 o'clock on the fifth attempt, the Alaska regained her station. Shortly afterward the big liners Aller, Kaiser Wilhelm, Cevic and Anchoria, which had been hove to, well off abore, turned their heads toward the lightship and pilots were put on board each.

The Aller had a stormy passage almost from the time of leaving, yesterday morning when near Nantucket the wind increased to a furious gale, blowing with a force of 11 deg. heaufort scale. It was from northwest and the course of the ship was direct in before. The Aller was off Fire Island at about 10:30 o'clock this morning. She slowed up her engines and slowly crept to the neighborhood of the lightship. The Kaiser Wilhelm had generally fine weather from Gibraitar until yesterday morning, when the hurricane overtook her. She plunged and rolled in the huge seas, making all hands uncomfortable, but sustained no damage. Among the passengers on board were seventy members of Col. Mapleson's Imperial Opera Company.

The steamers Anchoria and the White Star freighter Cevic anchored in quarantine shortly after sundown. Owing to the height of the gale and strong tide the marine reporters were unable to board either vessel.

Abiger Exonerated by the Coroner

Jury Yesterday. MONTEREY, Oct. 12.—An inquest was held this morning over the re-mains of Count Wolfgang Ballestrem, shot and killed at his cabin by his artist partner, Charles Abiger. The coroner's jury returned a verdict of accidental death, exonerating Abiger of all blame, accepting his explanation that the gun had been discharged accidentally. Many adverse comments on the verdict of the coroner's jury have been made by the townspeople and details, as related by Mrs, Smith, are peculiar. The occupants of the house were Smith, who is a laborer; his wife and child, Joseph Shultz, his aged father-in-law, and John Whier, a fellow-laborer, who had lived with the family for six years past.

Some days ago Whier gave Smith $400 to keep for him until the first of November. This was a part of the money reported gone. The remainder belonged to Smith and his father-inlaw. They kept the coin in a small safe in a bedroom. The burglars are supposed to have operated between 2 and 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon, when the entire household was absent. Shultz discovered the robbery. He told the police that he found everything out of order in the bedroom. The safe door was wide open. Papers and coin bags were strewn over the floor. In his room trunks had been opened, and the contents thrown about in confusion. Mrs. Smith said the money was kept in the safe, because they had suffered through a bank failure some years ago.

The fact that Corbett will not pay attention to the National Club's offer of $10,000 for a ten-round fight with Sharkey is generally deemed conclusive evidence that Corbett cannot again get in condition to meet the bull-like sailor boy. Corbett knows that there is no necessity for the National Club to put up the $10,000 purse, as at the four-round go at the Pavillon $14,000 was taken in. As a ten-round set-to between Corbett and Sharkey is likely to be a finish fight, at least the same amount would be taken in.

Dan Lynch said last night that the National Athletic Club was about to offer a fair purse for a finish fight. He will accept the offer for Sharkey, and in case Corbett does not agree to a date for a fight he will post the balance of the side bet and demand that Corbett's forfeit money be given to him. SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 12.-Henry

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 12.—Henry Ryan, the defaulting treasurer of the Ancient Order of Foresters, surrendered himself this morning.

Ryan has been wanted since May on a charge of embezzlement. He disappeared early in that month, leaving a deficit of about $500 in the funds of Acme Court. A reward was offered for his arrest by the Surety Company, which had qualified on his bond, but no trace of him could be found.

This morning, however, he visited the office of the company with his mother and the consultation which followed is said to have resulted in a settlement of his shortage. It has been hinted for some time that the young man's friends in Acme Court of which he was treasurer, raised the amount of the deficit by subscription and then made the fact known to Ryan, who, feeling safe from prosecution, made known his whereabouts to those who were looking for him. He presented a nost pitable sight this morning, as he is in the last stages of consumption and fully realizes that he has not long to live.

Moore protected his jaw with the left mitten, but the force of one blow was so strong that it reached Moore's jaw and the St. Paul man went down and out in short order. The time of the last round was 2m. 57s. Referee Hurst then declared O'Brien the winner. The big event was next in order.

First round—Quinn led off with a left on face. Walcott rapped the left on the body. Walcott swung right on head and Bill put a hard left on the body. "Scaldy" swung a right on the body. "Scaldy" swung a right on the body and Walcott swung left on the body and Walcott did the same.

Second round—Walcott swung left on the face and they exchanged lefts on the body. Both exchanged lefts and rights on body and head. Walcott swung a right on the back of the head. He landed a good left on the body, and Bill sent his left in the face. Walcott jabbed a left in the body and swung his left twice hard on the head. He put Quinn to his knees with a hard right swing on the head and the gong saved "Scaldy."

Third round—Walcott led off with two left jabs in the face. He tried hard to reach Quinn's body, but he overreached himself and fell against the ropes. Both fighters did nothing effective. Fourth round—Walcott janded a hard left in Quinn's face, and he got in a good hook in Quinn's neck with left and jabbed the same glove twice in the same place. Quinn tried to avoid the rushes of Walcott and was very tired when the round ended.

Eighth round—"Scaldy" led off with right on face and wind. Bill tried three times to swing with right, but fell short. Walcott knocked "Scaldy" down with a right-hand swing on the head.

Thirteenth round — Walcott landed heavily on the head and jaw with right and left. He knocked "Scaldy" down three times with right and left swings, but the tenacity of the Pennsylvanian was more than Walcott could down and Bill fought back gamely until the gong ended the round.

Fourteenth round—"Scaldy" came up fresh in this round, and he sent in a right on the head and left on the body. His gameness won the sympathy of the crowd, and when he landed a hard left on the head and a right smash on the face. Walcott staggered into his corner at the call of time.

Fifteenth round—Walcott began with three lefts on the body, and "Scaldy" got back with a hard left on the face, Walcott landed a right swing on the back of the head, and two hot lefts on the jaw. Walcott administered a lot of punishment to his opponent, but "Scaldy" was game and earned the plaudits of the sports, who cheered him for his pluck.

Sixteenth round — Walcott rushed with left on the body and face. He knocked Bill down with a right smash on the jaw, but Bill came up immediately, and was ready for more when the gong sounded.

Seventeenth round—Walcott rushed again, landing left on the body and face. He knocked Bill down with a right smash on the jaw, but Bill came up immediately, and was ready for more when the gong sounded.

Seventeenth round—Walcott rushed again, landing left on the body and fight and left on the face. Bill was sent down three times with right swings, but he managed to come up gamely and in the most plucky manner fought back. His pluck held him up, but his strength soon gave out, and after standing more punishment than an ordinary man could bear, Quinn was knocked out by a left-hand swing on the jaw. sociation without his knowledge or consent:

"Sir: I am directed by the council of the Yacht Racing Association to acknowledge the receipt of a letter from you, dated September 28. I am to reply that the visit of their committee to the Niagara was made in the usual course, and solely in consequence of the official measurer having, in May, 1896, in execution of his duty, reported to the council that her water tanks were connected together in such a manner that they might be used as shifting ballast. Notice of such visits is never given. The committee expected to find you on board, but hearing from your captain that you had left for London only a few minutes before, they requested permission to inspect the tanks, which was readily given. Their declarations confirmed the report of the measurer, and they recommended to you in writing that the tanks should be disconnected, at the same time expressly disclaiming any imputation that the tanks were actually put in for improper use.

"The council falls to perceive that any discourtesy was displayed toward you, and certainly none was intended. It is not necessary to enter into any discussion of the other points raised in your letter. As you thought fit to make your grievance public through the press, it is proper this reply shall pass through the same channel.

champion bantam-weight of the world, tonight defeated Johnny Murphy of Boston, in a twenty-round "go" before the National Sporting Club.

The quarters of the club were crammed to their utmost capacity, many fashionable sports being among the spectators. The opinion among Johnny Murphy's friends was very general that he had cut out a very tough job for himself, and Palmer was a hot favorite at the odds of 6 to 4.

When the puglists entered the ring it was easy to see that both had paid strict attention to training, and it was also plain to sports that they were in for a long and tedlous fight. Palmer meant to take no chances, but to win on points. At no stage of the twenty rounds did he attempt a knock-out. He punished the American very little, and, in fact, there was very little blood shed. Palmer, however always had the fight in hand, and at no stage was Murphy dangerous.

The Londoner depended mainly on his left hand. The glove was seldom out of his rival's face and scarcely more than a dozen right-handed cross-counters were exchanged. The major portion of these were delivered by Murphy, but he was unable to get near enough to do any damage. Palmer's right-handers were of the lightest possible kind.

The affair was voted very tame, the only redeeming feature being Palmer's cleverness and Murphy's gameness. There was very little applause at the finish, and, in fact, the fight had been so one-sided that it was a relief to see it ended.

CONFESSION BY THE PRISONER

AT LAKE MILLS, IOWA.

EACH TOOK A DIFFERENT COURSE

He Gives a Fictitious Name and Will not Disclose His True One. His Dead Relative's Body Buried Sunday.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE.)
LAKE MILLS (Iowa,) Oct. 12.—The young man under arrest here on a charge of having been implicated in the double murder and bank robbery at Sherburne has made a confession, acknowledging that he was associated in the affair. He says that the man at Sherburne has made a confession, acknowledging that he was associated in the affair. He says that the man killed, while resisting arrest near Elmore was his brother. He will not reveal his true name nor the location of his home. The confession was secured by his captor, Marshal Ruby. In it he declared that his brother planned the robbery and killed the two men in the Sherburne bank.

After detailing the killing of the two men, he said he and his brother were gratly alarmed lest they be penned up in the bank, and both agreed that they must work rapidly. He continued: "I went to the money I thought there was about $700 in the bunch that I had. I put it in a sack that we had for that purpose and then we cut the screen to the back window and left town on our bleycles. Just as we got on the bicycles I handed my brother the money, and he put it in his bleycle bag. We separated about two and one-half or three miles out of Sherburne. My brother, being the best rider, made south for the State line and I took a southwesterly direction until I got south of Jackson, and then I struck out south along the Des Moines River to Algona. Then I crossed the country around by Britt to Lake Mills. I had a pretty hard time getting through."

After making the confession to Marshal Ruby, the latter tried to have the prisoner tell his right name, but he shook his head and said: "I do not wish to let my folks know anything about this. I suppose I shall plead guilty under an assumed name."

The name he first gave on being taken into custody-was Jim McMullen. He now says that it is fictitious, but will give no other, so that this is the name under which he will probably be arraigned. He will be taken to Blue Earth City for safe keeping, as it is considered dangerous to lodge him at Fairmount, Martin county, in which the Sherburne affair occurred.

A dispatch from Sherburne says the body of the dead robber, J. D. Stair, was interred at Sherburne Sunday. The other funeral was that of George Thorburn, the dead cashier. The body will be shi and four carloads of arms and ammunition.

The Dauntless left Jacksonville last Monday, escorted by the revenue cutter Boutwell. The vessels crossed the St. Johns bar in company and proceeded to sea. Once outside the marine limit the Dauntless showed her heels to the Boutwell and rapidly steamed southward, the cutter following for a few miles and then returning to Jacksonville. Eight hours after the Dauntless had left port, the cruiser Newark, from Jacksonville, passed here in quest of the filibuster, but the warship was too late.

Word now comes from Key West that the Dauntless landed the men and arms just before daylight on the south coast of Pinar del Rio.

Ten years ago the woman and her husband, calling themselves Stone, came from Kentucky, bought land in a good neighborhood and lived a secreted life. Immediately thefts became numerous, incendiary fires followed, rumors spread abroad, the husband died, vigilance committees were formed, but their efforts came to nothing. At last the neighbors raided the farmhouse and found a young woman, daughter-in-law of Mrs. Moore, imprisoned in a room and subjected to the foulest treatment. Indignation became intense, and, as the stealing of the turkeys was a sure case, it was resorted to to get the Moore woman into the penitentiary and break up her nefarious operations.

William Boy in the Twin Cities Yes-terday—Ambassador Bryan Repu-diates Him—Anarchist Waite Will Throw Him His Weight.

(BY THE TIMES' SPECIAL WIRE.) LINCOLN (Neb.,) Oct. 12.—(Special Dispatch.) Senator Thurston was seen at campaign headquarters today, and he went over the conditions in the various counties of Nebraska, to show the basis on which he predicts his be-lief that McKinley will carry the State.

"I think Nebraska has definitely concluded to indorse the sound-money cause. The situation is going to strengthen for us instead of weakening, I belive. From my correspondence, we are gaining daily. I will admit the prospects were not so rosy a month ago, but Nebraska cannot help feeling the effects of the McKinley tidal wave sweeping over the country. "State pride may bring some votes to Bryan, but I doubt if they will amount many, even here in Lincoln. It will re effect. I should judge, in holding some Popocrats to him, who might otherwise come over, but who will use his citizenship here as an excuse for not doing so. I believe we would give 5000 majority for McKinley today, and I look for higher figures next month."

'How about your Congressmen?"
"That is a much harder fight," replied enator Thurston. "I am hopeful of solid delegation, but in the Sixth a solid delegation, but in the Sixth District we have more than two thousand majority to overcome. The Third is also a hard fight. All of the other districts are certainly Republican, and I expect we can pull through in the two named."

WILLIAM AND THE TWINS.

Bryan Has a Reception in St. Paul. Speaks at Minneapolis. (BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE.)

MINNEAPOLIS (Minn.,) Oct. 12.-William Jennings Bryan came from St. Paul to her sister city this afternoon, and Minneapolis received him with enthuslasm. He spoke to four big meet and Minneapolis received him with enthusiasm. He spoke to four big meetings tonight in these places: Exposition Hall, Bridge Square, on the banks of the Mississippi River, just outside the hall; Lyceum Theater to an audience of women, and Yale Place, a public square, in the city.

Bryan rested in St. Paul all morning. He stayed in his room at the Hotel Ryan until after luncheon, when he held an informal reception in the parlors. With Mrs. Bryan by his side, the candidate stood in a doorway and smiled to the greetings of the hundreds of persons who filed past during the course of an hour. Bryan having expressed a preference to make the journey between the Twin Cities by trolley rather than in his private car, a special car, elaborately decorated, was engaged. Arrived here, a second reception was held in the West Hotel, and then Mr. and Mrs. Bryan were driven to the home of State Senator S. B. Howard, where they took dinner. During their absence the Veterans' Bryan Club of Minneapolis, 200 gray-haired warriors, marched to the hotel and formed a circle in the spacious lobby. When he came out they gave him a royal reception and escorted him to Exposition Hall. No such crowd has been packed within the walls of that building since the day when the Republican party nominated Benjamin Harrison for President in 1892. It has a seating capacity of 8300. Every seat was occupied, and there was a standing army of very many more lined around the walls and choking the aisles. Outside the hall the crowd was so great that the services of a squad of policemen was required to force an entrance for Bryan when he arrived. The hall onstration was enthusiastic throughout.

Ex-Mayor Philip B. Winston presided over this meeting, and, after the demonstration, which welcomed the candidate had subsided, he introduced E. C. Marchard, who, on behalf of "a large part of the laboring classes of Minneapolis," presented to Bryan an inkstand made, so the speaker said, of gold and silver at a ratio of 16 to 1. This brought another outburst of applause, as Bryan stepped to the front of the stage to begin his speech.

When the night's speechmaking was ended, Bryan and his party retired to their private car, preferring to spend the night there rather than be distubed by the departure for Duluth at an early hour in the morning. Congressman Towne, the leader of the silver movement in this State, joined the party here, and will accompany it throughout the State.

HIS EXPOSITION HALL ADDRESS In his address at Exposition Hall

I have not belonged to that class known as workingmen, because my profession has become this country. I have not belonged to that class known as workingmen, because my profession has been that of a lawyer, but I have been taught to believe that the legal profession must have something to rest upon as a foundation. Unless there is wealth produced, a lawyer will suffer, and I have been brought up to believe all the classes which rest upon the producers of wealth can only prosper when the producers of wealth can only prosper when the producers of wealth are prosperous. And, therefore, I am not entirely unselfish when I desire such legislation as will enable them to have more than enough to eat and drink. I want them to have enough to be comfortable, because until they produce there is nothing to distribute, and if they simply produce without enjoying, you discourage the production of wealth so they will case to produce."

The nominee then referred again to the circulation by his opponents of an editorial published in the Omaha World-Herald in relation to pension legislation. He again declared that the editorial was published two years previous to his connection with that newspaper, and added:

"The fact that they attempt to use an editorial which I did not write is sufficient proof that they have never been able to find anything in the four years of my Congressional life which I they can use.

of their "sudden interest in the welfare of laboring men."

The speaker then produced extracts from a speech made by Senator Washburn of this city on the floor of the United States Senate on July 11, 1892, and said:

"I am not surprised that in Minnesota and all over this country Republicans are leaving temporarily the Republican party, when they find that it is drawing to the Republican party all those Democrats whom the Republicans in the past have been in the habit of denouncing. And, my friends, you Republicans who are joining with us in this campaign have the consolation of knowing that you are doing it without having to abandon the convictions that you followed in years past. There is this difference between the Republicans who come to us and the Democrats who go from us. The Democrats who go from us. The Democrats who go from years past of John Sherman for all the bad words the Democratic party has spoken against him, while the Republicans who come bringing in their hands the Republican platform which was adopted in this hall four years ago. In this way: "The American people, from tradition and interest, favor bimetallism."

"Do the traditions change in four years? No. my friends, you cannot change traditions in that time. Do the interests of the people change in four years? No; their interests are the same now as they were four years ago, and as the Republican party declared four years ago that the American people from tradition and interest favored the gold standard, those Republicans have a right to stand there today, even though the Republican party shall retreat from its position and go across the ocean to find inspiration.

"There is another difference between those Republicans who come to us, and I will show you a man who will get up before any audience and tell it the road by which he came and the arguments which converted him. Show me a Democrat who went from us, and I will show you a man who never gives the real reason why ke was dragged out of the Democratio party. The Republicans who come to us come with nothing to conceal, and are perfectly willing to tell where they stand, and why they stand there, and they are among the most zealous recruits we have. Those who go from us are only able to say in explanation of their conduct that if we had free coinage of sliver it would be awful."

After referring to the fruitless attempts to secure international bimetallism, Bryan declared that the Democratic party had decided that it was time for this country to act alone.

The Republican party of San Francisco will have no trouble in getting on the ticket by petition. The manner in which reputable citizens are crowding forward to sign the petitions being circulated, shows that the Republicanticket will receive the full support of the party, and that the efforts of the bolters to defeat it will be overridden by a storm of protesting voters. The Republican leaders say the petition of nominees will bear at least 15,000 names when it is filed, though less than 2000 are required.

Nearly 3000 names that had been placed on the petitions were rejected, as they had been signed by friends of the persons bearing them at the request of the latter. It was decided that no signature should appear on the certificate that was not in every way regular and signed by the parties in person. The certificate with the accompanying petition will probably be filed today.

Early in the day a similar petition had been offered for filing by the A.P. A. organization under the title of "Citizens' Independent Party." A verbal protest was entered upon behalf of the latter against the use of the word "Citizens" by the Republican party, the claim being made that the Independent petition had been first filed.

Registrar Hinton disposed of this protest by citing the fact that the Citizens' non-partisan party had been the first to file its claim to that title and if the Independents' protest held good as to the Republicans, it was equally as forcefully applied to the Independents. The protest was not insisted upon. The question of filing both petitions was taken under advisement.

RULED AGAINST THE NAME.

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—In the Supreme Court of Kings county today, Judge Clement decided in favor of the Democratic County Committee's protest against the use upon the official ballot of the designation, "National Democratic" by the gold-standard Democrats and Shepard faction. Judge Clement says: "The political party name of National Democratic party is substantially the same as the regular Democratic party, and infringes upon the right of use thereof by the political party known as the regular Democratic party."

The matter will at once be taken before the Appellate Court for further argument. A writ of mandamus is asked to compel the election commissioners to put the names of the Shepard party nominees on the ballots under the head of the National Democratic party.

Higgs, nominee for Goverpor on the National Prohibition ticket, has tendered his resignation to State Chairman J. W. Welis. He gives as his reason that, owing to the ruling of the Secretary of State, it will be impossible to get the State and national party ticket on the official ballot. In his letter to Chairman Wells he states that he will give his active support to the Democratic ticket, and advises all the Nationalists in the State to do the same.

HARRISON AND THE STUMP. CHICAGO, Oct. 12.—The Republican National Committee has secured ex-President Harrison for a number of President Harrison for a number of speeches in Indiana. A special train will be used, and on October 20 and 21, 30 and 31 the ex-President will make tours of the State, delivering short speeches from the platform of the cars. He will not speak outside of Indiana, however, and these will be the only speeches delivered by Gen. Harrison during the campaign, his business affairs not permitting him to spend more time on the stump.

After a brief address Enright presented Gen. Palmer, who was enthusiastically received.

Gen. Palmer was cheered repeatedly by those present, most of whom arose to their feet. He said that he would not discuss the attacks made against the right of the United States to enforce its own laws, but would talk about the currency question.

"Mr. Bryan proposes," said he, "to add to the currency already in circulation by the coinage of silver. Unless the free-silver men can make a dollar under their free-coinage act, of equal acceptability with our present money, all the other money will disappepar and you will have as currency only the money provided by free coinage. Whatever free coinage falls to add to the 47 cents that the standard silver dollar is worth above its bullion value, will be a public loss on our $430,000,000, our present circulation. Mr. Bryan claims that under free coinage, silver and gold will meet at some point and that that will be the standard; but nobody has ever been able o say where that point is. People talk about a $32-cent that I have 'bolted' Mr. Bryan, my law partner, now candidate for President of the United States on the Demoratic ticket. I have always been and now am a Republican, but no man has a greater admiration or higher regard for Mr. Bryan than I have. His honesty, integrity and patriotism cannot be questioned. I have not 'bolted' Mr. Bryan, and any statement to that effect is untrue.

the Receiving Hospital, where he was cared for.

Curtis arrived here several weeks ago with his wife, a bride of a few months, and rented apartments in a house at No. 438 Van Ness avenue. They seemed devoted to each other, and were possessed of considerable money.

According to Curtis's story, he arrived here shortly after 5 o'clock Sunday evening, and was astonished to find his wife absent. Her trunks had been opened and several cosily dresses were missing. Suspecting something wrong, Curtis made inquiries among the other guests and learned that his wife had left the house only a short time before.

Placing a revolver in his pocket, he went in search of his wife, letermined to compel her to return to him. After visiting several hotels and not finding the object of his search, the distracted young man finally went to the Golden West. Seeing his wife's name on the register he immediately started to her room. Failing to arouse her, he proceeded to force an estrace. At this juncture one of the attaches of the hotel appeared and, failing to induce Curtis to leave, summoned a policeman. He was then placed under arrest on a charge of listurbing the peace. He threatened to "do" for aimself unless she returned to him.

SIERRA MADRE.

SIERRA MADRE, Oct. 12.—(Regular Correspondence.) What might have been a serious mountain fire was averted this afternoon by the prompt action of the citizens here. About 2 o'clock the bell of the Congregational Church was rung, and within a few minutes a large crowd of men on horses and in buggies were at the foot of the mountains, where the fire had started. The first to arrive was James Hawks, who had used his wheel to good advantage in reaching the scene of action. After three-quarters of an hour of hard fighting the fire was extinguished. By this time a gang of men had arrived from Baldwin's Ranch. # Matchless Shaw Piano=-Worth $600 in Cash.

This magnificent instrument is the finest and and best we could procure in what is conceded to be the largest and best music house in Los Angeles. The Shaw Piano, according to the best expert testimony available, is honestly what it purports to be, matchless in tone, touch and finish. There is none better. The cash price of this instrument we offer is $600. It, and cheaper pianos of the same excellent make, can be seen at the beautiful rooms of the # Lot 20, Block K, Menlo Park Tract, Worth $350 Cash.

This lot 40 by 150 feet in size, is in Easton, Eldridge & Co's. beautiful Menlo Park tract. It fronts on Twenty-second street and is midway between Menlo and Griffith avenues. The net cash price of this lot was $350. Menlo Park is ten minutes' ride from the corner of Second and Spring streets by Central avenue or Maple avenue electric cars, in the direct line of the city's growth south and east. It is fine residence property. Street work, including grading, graveling, cement curbs and sidewalks, has already been, or will be completed on every street in the tract without expense to the purchasers. Beautiful shade trees, city water, building restrictions in every deed guaranteeing highclass improvements are among the inducements to purchasers. # MUSICAL MENTION.

The concert given at the First Congregational Church last evening under the management of the young ladies of the church was attended by a fairsized and very appreciative audience.

H. S. Williams sang, among other numbers, Gounod's "She Alone Charmeth," in which his excellent baritone voice and vocal capabilities showed to advantage, though some of the best effects were marred by the noise of street traffic.

Miss Delphine Todd has probably never been heard to better advantage in this city than in her singing of Reinecke's "Spring Flowers" (violin obligate by Edwin Clark.) She received an enthusiastic encore and responded with Lurch" "We Was a Prince" The concert given at the First Cor

LONDON, Oct. 12.—(By Atlantic Ca-ole.) Mrs. Castle, who with her hus-San Francisco, is held a prisoner at Holloway jail pending their arraignment on remand to Mariborough-street Police Court tomorrow, was examined today in prison by Dr. Savage, an eminent specialist on mental diseases. There appears to be no doubt that Mrs. Castle's mental balance is seriously disturbed. During an interview which James R. Roosevelt, secretary of the United States Embassy, had with her, she kept saying: "Oh, my head! San Francisco, is held a prisoner her, she kept saying: "Oh, i Oh, my head!" She appear dazed, and spoke incoherently She appeared quite Evidence is on the way from the family doctor of the Castles in the United States which will show Mrs. Castle's mental condition to have been unsatisfactory since the birth of her child in 1894, so much so at one time that it was suggested to place Mrs. Castle under partial restraint. It is expected Mrs. Castle will plead guilty to taking the articles found in the trunk without felonious intent. Mr. Castle pleaded not guilty. In the event of their non-acquittal the Castles will not submit to the jurisdiction of the Bow-street magistrate, but will request to be committed for trial. Then the letters, telegrams of sympathy, and indorsement of their high character and social and business standing will be offered as urgent pleas for bail. Mr. and Mrs. Castle are confined in separate rooms at Holloway jail.

Seldom in politics has a single speech produced such a decided instantance or of the control of the decided, instantaneous effect. The na-tion is in a much better frame for taking an impartial view of the eastern situation than it was three days ago. The country is prosperous, Ireland is quiet. There is no chance of bye-elections and the Radical agent must make a living somehow. He knows the Armenian business means money. The dissenting Minister loves to pose cheaply as the friend of humanity. On Sunday afternoon he secures men at his chapel whom he sees at no other time. His addresses are nominally social, but really political. All these proposals to support the government contained veiled or open suggestions that if Mr. Gladssone were at the head of affairs, things would be different. Both, therefore, are interested in making a scare.

"The recent visit of the Emperor of Russia to France indicates that all Europe is now in common accord to preserve peace, and will not let it be disturbed by England or any one power. The people of England re at last beginning to appreciate the fact that the Emperor of Russia, who is now the arbiter of peace, will not permit it to be disturbed by the isolated aggression of any one power acting without the assent of united Europe and in the way the noisy and uproarious bands of Gladstonian sentimentalists strove so persistently to bring about." ister, both of whom are under a cloud,

"As stated, the aceptance of your resignation by relieving the public service of the injurious consequences of your connection with it, answers practically all purposes which could be accomplished by your dismissal. I am directed by the President to notify you that your resignation is accepted."

The third edition of the McKinley Number of The Times was printed on the 30th of September. New matter to the amount of eight pages has been added, making twenty-four pages in all, with fifty illustrations. The rates are as follows:

PRICES, INCLUDING POSTAGE.

The movement for the purchase and circulation of an edition of 60,000 copies of this issue is progressing encouragingly. The object is to spread the paper over the seven southern counties, giving a copy to every doubt ful voter. Already a large proportion of the proposed 60,000 edition has been subscribed for. Patriotic Republicans who favor this method of conducting a campaign of education can aid the movement by subscribing direct for copies in bulk, at the rates given above.

These copies will be circulated through the various county committees or otherwise, as the subscribers may direct. A buckboard campaign and a house-to-house distribution is favored by many. The issue has been highly commended, both far and near, as a most effective campaign compendium. Orders for the paper in small or large quantities will be promptly attended to, and the receipt of the money ac-

When Grover Cleveland was elected the last time the total national interaring debt was only $585,034,260. ce that time, under free-trade rule, It has been increased to $847,364,260. remarks made by the advocates of free Free trade is a long way from being "dalsy." Not only has it crippled at one-half of the manufacturing nd other interests in the country, but has added over $260,000,000 to the al interest-bearing debt. As would have said-enough!

Between George C. Perkins, a fortyars' resident of California, and ing Telegram, in a late issue, says that as V. Cator, of everywhere in erica and nowhere in particular, the will go this year. The only question of Southern California ought at present, it adds, is whether the ot to be very long in making up their inds as to which is best qualified to enough to crush the life out of Bryannt them in the United States ism in the State, or small enough to nate for the nest olk years.

ALL ELSE CAN WAIT.

As the November election draws nearer and nearer, conservative and thoughtful men in all sections of the country realize more and more acutely the fact that the supreme issue of this campaign is not free silver coinage, nor the tariff These are great and vital questions, but not the greatest and nost vital questions of the hour. Back of them, and dominating all other is sues, is the question as to whether this nation is to be governed by constitutional and statutory law or by mob law. In the presence of this superlative question, all others sink into insignificance As Maj. McKinley has so well and so tersely said: "Government by law must first be assured everything else can wait."

Bryan and his followers strenuously object to being classed as Anarchists and revolutionists. They make a noisy pretense of being loyal to the Constitution and the laws. But they protest too much. The platform upon which Bryan stands speaks plainer than any words he has uttered or can utter on the subject. He has repeatedly declared that he is heartly in accord with every declaration of that platform, and that if elected he will see that its principles are carried out These declarations contradict and nullify the Bryanite professions of loyalty to the Constitution and the laws; for the Chicago platform, in its denunciation of the Federal courts and of the President of the United States, for enforcing the laws of the United States is anarchistic and revolutionary. No explanations can explain away this damnable and disgraceful fact. No protestations can render it harmless or neaningless. It stands forth clearer and clearer as the day approaches on which the voters of this nation must decide to which of the great political parties the destinies of the republic shall be committed.

There is no means of evading this great and paramount issue. It must be met and determined, one way or the other, by ballot, on the third day of November. It should be determined without passion or prejudice. It should be determined intelligently and on its merits. If thus determined, the verdict must inevitably be in favor of William McKinley and the principles he represents. Upon his side are ar rayed the elements of good govern ment, sound finance, safety, patriotism and prosperity. Upon the side of Bryan are arrayed the elements subversive of good government, the ele of hate, malice, envy, distrust, anarchy, business disaster and revolu Between these things the voter of this nation must choose. Can there be any reasonable doubt that their choice will be in favor of McKinley and national safety? To doubt that such will be the popular ligence and patriotism of the American people.

The campaign has progressed to s point where it has become the patriotic duty of every true American citizen to review for himself the situation of the country before he casts his vote and then to take care to so vote as to avert a long train of evils, the end of which no man can foretell The vote for McKinley should be so overwhelming and decisive as to set at rest for a generation the disturbing and dangerous issues which have unfortunately been forced to the front in this cam-

A TRIUMPH OF DECENCY.

When Mai. McKinley declared, the other day, in one of his speeches, that a Republican victory in November would be no party triumph, he told an born truth. It will be a national victory which the decency and honesty of all true Americans have won for the Republican ticket, regardless of former partisan affiliations. At the close of the war President Lincoln did not hesitate to express the gratitude he felt toward such loyal Demoleaving the party. I shall stay. My erats as Nesmith, Cornness and others loyalty to the party which has honored me is entirely consistent in Congress who loved their country better than their party. And we are very badly mistaken in the character of William McKinley if we do not hear sent in the Senate of the United from him similar exclamations of heartfelt thankfulness to those honest and intelligent Democrats who rose superior to the trammels of party and declined, as Bourke Cockran said, "to follow Mr. Bryan into a crusade against Nor does the stalwart Cockran stand alone in his manly and vigorous appeal to the better senses of the American people in behalf of national honor and sound money. The other Democrats who believe in the perpetuation of our national credit are men distinguished in the councils of the nation or on the battlefield. Abram S. Hewitt, one of the most consciention legislators that New York ever sent to Congress, writes to a friend to say that "the Democratic convention at Chicago made a distinct declaration of war upon the Constitution of the United States." Gen. Daniel E. Sickles, the one-legged hero of Gettysburg, and afterward a Democratic member of Congress from the Empire State, says: "I know Maj McKinley very well. He is a man of rectitude and honor. Upon the practical and pressing issues of the day he Vermont, who was Minister to England during Mr. Cleveland's first term, vored with Waite's depunciation. "I will not vote for a man who affects to believe that the ownership of private property is an act of der the wheels of a moving train at public hostility. I love my country and Fresno the other night, and got ground will not vote for her enemies." Gen. up into mincemeat, saved that county Horatio King of New York says: "The the expense of trying him for burglary sound-money majority will be large Democratic party has begun to recover its reason and we may hope that the fore, have a monument, for he might rank and file will discover that it is have lived to commit a murder the hybrid convention at And from the far East from the northern extreme of our vast republic, comes a voice that is an of past ages. It is the voice of James W. He was a law student when Jackson was elected President, and, as a Senator, sat beside Clay and Webster, the two grandest orators that ever graced the American forum. We cannot disregard the words of sagacious old men of his stamp. Nor do these complete the list, by any means. "The woods are full of em." On every side you meet men of Democratic education in early life, who have become disgusted at the anarchistic sentiments expressed in the Chicago platform, and who are not satisfied with the nominations of Palmer and Buckner that cannot carry a single State in the Union. These men be lieve that, if a man wants to see Mc-Kinley elected, the best thing he can do is to vote for him outright. There are hundreds of men who do not want to ose their party standing and will talk Palmer for that reason, but when elec

That is one reason why the better and more intelligent Democrats, in this trying emergency, have come over to McKinley, because he represents all that is American in our nationality. The healthy admiration for honest labor that marks a sound mind within a sound body: the love of the domestic circle that is sanctified by memories of fond parents, "not lost but gone before;" the unqualified demand for pres ervation of national honor; and the kindness of spirit which recognizes no distinction of nativity nor barrier of easte, all these betoken the sound American man. He will win and his victory will be one not of a party, but triumph of nationality. The tutelar genius of American citizenship shall perch upon his banner and lead all her sons to victory. The movement to exclude children afflicted with consumption from the common schools of San Francisco is a step in the right direction and not taken a day too soon. Consumptive children spit, right and left, the matter from diseased lungs. It become dry and resolves itself into dust, which is inhaled by otherwise healthy children and the parents of the little sufferer, who are strong and hearty enough themselves, cannot fathom how their child became affected. The day is not far off when a similar rule will have to be made in the schools of our own city. Indeed, we are not sure that ago.

In his speech at Lawrenceburg Mr. Bryan made the remark that his party was suffering from a lack of daily newspapers." While that is perfectly true, Mr. Bryan should have manifested some gratitude for what ever the papers that are not of his party are doing for him, for assuredly no candidate for the Presidency has eve been given so large a space by the op position papers as has Mr. Bryan. What more, then, in all fairness to himself and to the cause he cham pions could he desire? And yet he is ot thankful.

The St. Louis Globe-Democrat makes very happy suggestion in the follow ing:

"How would it do to have a gen-eral house decoration on the same day in every city of the country in honor of sound money—say two weeks before the election? Call it Sound-money day. Let everybody show his colors.'

The idea is an excellent one. It would permit all citizens to express their views without involving them in any expense beyond, perhaps, the cost of a small flag, indicative of the national honor.

A BIG UNDERTAKING.

the Chicago Record, published Victor F. Lawson, is due one of the greatest undertakings ever attempted in a political campaign. It is nothing less than a well-planned effort to ascertain in advance of the election on November 3 the predominant sentiment of voters in all of the twelve central Western States; together with a complete poll of the registered voters of the city of Chicago.

The reason, the Record says, why it tral Western States is because it believes they will hold the balance of termine the result of the Presidential

Nothing on so extended a scale for such a purpose has before been at-tempted by any newspaper or even any political organization. A few figures will aid in showing the enormous amount of work and expense it involves. Letters will be mailed 750,000 individual voters in the twelve States alluded to. Each letter will contain a printed pamphlet explaining the object in view, also a postal card on which the voter will write the name of the candidate he intends voting for, the card to be mailed back to the Record office. These pamphlets are printed in English, German, Swedish, Norwegian, Polish, Italian, Bohemian Russian and Hebrew, so that the pamphlet sent the voter will be printed in the language which he is supposed to be most familiar with. The Record has appropriated $50,000 to provide for can politics, they will be found making the cost of this work, but it is believed that the total expense may be all of $60,000

A number will be placed against the name of every voter to whom a letter s sent and a corresponding number placed on the postal card inclosed in it, so that if the voter does not want to sign his name to the card he need not do so, the number on it will enable the Record to know who it is from.

Prince Hilkoff, the Russian Superrisor of Government Railways, says that line of steamers, capable of making wenty knots per hour, will be placed on the route between San Franc and Vladivostock, the terminus of the Siberian Railway, in about two years. That would undoubtedly be a great change in European travel, and the novelty of the route, if nothing else, would cause a large number of pleasure-seekers to go that way for change. The Pacific Ocean is very much smoother than the Atlantic, which would be a great consideratio with people who are in delicate health.

Some people here cannot understand vhy Alvinza Hayward and Charles Lane, both owners of valuable gold properties in this State, are so anxiou to have Bryan elected. If they would pause long enough to reflect over it they would see that the election of Bryan would lead up to the free coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1 and that free coinage would enrich them and every other gold-producer by bringing gold up to a premium. Just now it is at par with us, and we hope to keep it so.

The organ of the Democratic nomines for the Mayoralty is making strenuous efforts to convince citizens that Mr Snyder is the one man, above all others, who is safe to preside over deliberations between the municipality and the water company. That may be out there are some Los Angeles voters who express anxiety lest, when the critical moment arrives, Mr. Snyder might have to go to Highland to put in a bid for a shoe contract.

John Gilmer Speed, in the Ladies' Home Journal, says that New York spends $6,000,000 a year on churche and $5,600,000 on theaters. Judging by the number of hard-up actors that one meets "on the Rialto" when visiting New York, we believe that Mr. Speed tells the truth.

The following statement signed by well-known and reputable gentlemen is of especial interest in view of Mr. Bryan's statement, made some time since, that he had never been in the employ of the Bimetallic League, or silver-mine-owners, in the work which he has done in behalf of silver in the past few years:

PHOENIX (Ariz.,) Sept. 1, 1896.

The Hon. William J. Bryan, the Populist, Free Silver and Democratic party candidate for President, in a recent statement made through the press, said that he at no time was in the employ of or represented, directly or indirectly, the silver producers of the United States, and that he had never been in the employ of any bimetallic league or association.

We, the undersigned, in February, 1896, attended a public meeting in Phoenix, Ariz., addressed by said Bryan upon the subject of the free coinage of silver. We were present in the hall used upon that occasion before the arrival of Mr. Bryan, and heard him begin his speech, but left the hall before he had finished it. An effort has been made to obtain a written report, accurately giving statements made by him in his opening remarks, but without success. From memory we testify that Mr. Bryan, in the introductory part of that speech said in emphatic words that his professional and other duties at home were so great and were such a demand upon his time that he had not time to devote to enlightening voters upon the free coinage of silver from the stump, But he said that he had been solicited repeatedly and urged so strongly by the Bimetallic League of the United States, an association of persons devoted to furthering the interests of silver, to make public speeches at different places under the auspices of said league that he agreed to do so, and that that was the reason of his presence in Phoenix.

AT THE PLAYHOUSES.

LOS ANGELES THEATER. Another of Augustin Daly's adaptations from the German is "The Two Escutcheons," in which the perennially charming Frawley Company appeared last night to a house far beneath the merits of the performance in point of number, but one that was entertained to the top of its here. of its bent.

The play has all the characteristics

The play has all the characteristics of German comedy, a comedy that some times degenerates into farce, but it is all as clean and sweet and bright as the roses after a rain, and the players last night fit into its gay and buoyant humor most delightfully.

Briefly told, it is a story of a rich Milwaukee widow, with a brewery on her hands at home, chaperoning a young American girl abroad who is so indiscreet as to fall in love with the son of a German Baron and to wed him out of hand. This Baron is of the old line of German aristocracy, with a name reaching back to eleven hundred and something, and as proud of his ancient lineage as a woman of her first name reaching back to eleven hundred and something, and as proud of his ancient lineage as a woman of ther first baby. In addition to his pride, he has a temper as testy as that of a man with the gout, and when he learns that his son's fiance has a father who is a Chicago pork-packer, he nearly strangles with indignation.

When the Chicago father and pork-packer, Thomas Foster (Harry Corson Clarke) learns that his daughter Mary (Hope Ross) is about to wed abroad, he concludes to give the young couple a surprise by showing up at the wedding. This Thomas Foster is a self-made plutocrat who, though born in Berlin, is so Americanized that he has all the brands, earmarks and idlosynicrasies of the native American; and he is as proud of Chicago and his pig stickery as the Baron ven Wettengen (Maclyn Arbuckle) is of his ancient and honorable ancestry.

As a consequence, the two fathersin-law clash at every meeting and their testy fits of temper and frequent disagreements give rise to the play's most ludicrous bits of comedy. Another character is Capt, von Vinck (Frank Worthing,) a young German of lelsure, eternally broke and always in debt, who falls into the hands of the young widow from Milwaukee (Blanche Bates,) widow, and all her hops, vats and other appliances.

The constant clashing of the two fathers-in-law provokes the young bride and groom to a spat because of each standing up for their own parent, and the climax of the trouble is reached by the Chicago father, the German Baron and the young couple all resolving to go away at the same time without the knowledge of the other and all meeting in the same room with their luggage at the dead hour of night, when—tableau!

She was simply delightful last night—sweet, gracious, lovable and lovely, and she won new laurels.

Hope Ross was equally charming as the young beauty of Chicago, making an ideal American girl, both in her girlish insonciance and in the loyal way in which she stood up for Yankee dad.

Harry Corson Clarke as the Yankee pork-packer, who claims to have won his way on bloody fields (although the blood was of the porcine sort) along with the effete aristocracy of Europe, who won by slaughtering their fellowman, was great, as usual. His dry humor is especially well suited to the role of Tom Foster, the Chicago man of business and butchery, and he made his points tell so effectively that the of the force of the charge man for business and butchery, and he made his points tell so effectively that the course was kept roaring with laughter. ORPHEUM. Two new and most attractive features have been added to the already strong cast at the Orpheum, and, judging by the size of the audience last evening. Los Angeles has large faith in their powers to entertain, as well as abiding affection for its older friends. Abdullah, the famous Oriental wire-walker, opened the entertainment with his dizzy promenade to the very dome of the theater, to slide down like a meteor of scarlet and gold. Then the Vassar Quartette treated the audience to another set of gay topical songs, with frequent changes of costume and many catchy jokes. Mr. Sturges was especially fetching as a country dude in a check suit that could have been heard from here to New York. Marguerite Ferguson, as prettily plump a little mortal as ever danced behind the footlights, whirled out of the wings, and indulged in some high kicking that would have made Councilman Kingery's moral sensibilities ache all oyer. As a cortortionist, she is wonderful, and appears to enjoy her supple tumbling as much as the spectators. She was like a bewitching grown-up baby as she rolled about the stage, with flying skirts and curls and a merry little grin. The gallery rose to a boy, and the house shook with applause. Mile. Alma, on her rolling electric globe, is a familiar sight, but none the less wonderful is her juggling and balancing amid the flashing lights. Annie Suits is the other novelty, and made as great a hit as Marguerite Ferguson. She is exceedingly fetching as a singer of comic songs, and is also one of the neatest of dancers. Dancing also, but in a different style, was the specialty of Ferguson and Mack, the knockabout comedians. It could hardly be called neat, but the spectators were weeping tears of inextinguishable laughter before it was finished. Lew Hawkins easily proved himself the premier singing and talking comedian, and his polling of the house for the Presidential candidates, asking for an expression of political opinion by applause. He got it. Watson was not deemed worthy of musical mention, and tractive features have been added the already strong cast at the Orphet and, judging by the size of the audi in this line. The same bill will continue all the week.

BURBANK THEATER. The Ideal

Company last evening was so pleasing as to win for the performers unstituted applause. The story of "La Mascotte" is so well known that its repetition, in this connection, is superfluous.

The part of Bettina, a mascot, is taken by Gracie Plaisted, whose petite figure and charming voice are most appropriate to the character. Dause Thorne, as Fiametti, the daughter of King Lorenzo, shares with Miss Plaisted the honors of the performance, while, The part of Bettins, a mascot, is taken by Gracie Plaisted, whose petite figure and charming voice are most appropriate to the character. Daise Thorne, as Flametti, the daughter of King Lorenzo, shares with Miss Plaisted the honors of the performance, while, Miro Delamotto, as Lorenzo, F. W. Huntley as Pippo, and O. W. Kyle as Rocco, assist the feminine portion of the cast in the production of "La Mascotte." Minor parts are taken by Emma Benson, Henry Nichols, Charles Ludwig, A. Rippey, D. Cheniwith, C. Stone, Marguerite Yost and Georgia Bell.

C. Stone, Marguerite Yost and Georgia Beil.

The work of the orchestra, under the direction of Louis Gottschalk, is deserving of special mention. Unusual smoothness and expression is produced by the instruments with Mr. Gottschalk handling the baton, while the songs composed by him, and sung in the last act of the opera add not a little to the attractiveness of the performance. The opera is very well mounted and staged, with appropriate scenery and furnishings and will no doubt draw the best of houses during its run at the Burbank. It will be given tonight, tomorrow evening and matinee, The "Beggar Student" is underlined for Thursday.

The Popocrats had better call in their wild-eyed ranter, M. L. Taylor, who is stumping Southern California. He is a fair sample of the Bryan shriekers. He attempts to stir up discord as the fol-lowing statement in his recent San Diego speech indicates: "I, the offspring of the old rebel, know the power of this great government. And let me tell you that when you meet to ratify the election of William Jennings Bryan, from every hamlet in the South, from everglades to the Panhandle of Texas, will go up the old, wild, sweet rebel yell in the same cause, and under the same flag." Taylor will split his ears a straining and his eyes a looking for any more rebel signs that he and many like him seem to yearn for. The people will never ratify the election of the boy orator.

A man has been found who believes that Bryan will be elected. He is a shoe dealer in Santa Ana, and in a moment of enthusiasm he advertised that he would give a pair of shoes to every one who called at his store with promise that the recipient is to nothing if McKinley is elected, but that he shall pay double the retail price if Bryan is elected. The shoe dealer thought this a proposition that would find few takers, but he quickly discovered that the shoe was on the other foot, for every Republican in town flocked to his store eager to take advantage of such a good thing, and for once he had more customers than he wanted. Finally the conviction was forced upon him that he would be on his uppers if his candidate should fail of election, and he withdrew his prop-

What a Townsman of Bryan's Says.

Fred Gotischalk of this city has recently received a letter from a friend who lives in Lincoln, Neb., in which the writer speaks at some length of the political outlook in that State. He speaks of W. J. Bryan as a man generally esteemed as a good citizen, and admired as an orator, but he says emphatically that Bryan will not carry his own ward, nor his own city. Lincoln will go overwhelmingly Republican: He adds: "As to the State, I cannot say positively, but there is no doubt that the Republicans have made wonderful gains within the past few weeks, as the Pops and Demopops have split on the electors." He expresses the opinion that Bryan will not carry the State, but if he should do so it will be by a very small majority. His conclusions are drawn from personal observations. Since January 1 he has traveled 10,000 miles in Nebraska, and has therefore had an unusually good opportunity to feel the popular pulse. What a Townsman of Bryan's Says

The semi-annual convention of the presbytery of Los Angeles opened yes-terday morning at Immanuel Church, both morning and afternoon sessions being devoted to the Christian Endeavorers. The church was we'l filled and much interest was manifested. The devotional hour, at 10 o'clock, which was lead by Rev. H. H. Rice of Pomona, was followed by two-minute reports of the different societies, thirty of which were represented. The morning session was closed with the organization of presbytery, which resulted in the election of Rev. Dr. Maxson of Rivera, as moderator. In the afternoon, Rev. Guy W. Wadsworth spoke on "Our Young People and Presbyterian Education," taking up the importance of education in general, and especially the reluction of young people to Christian education. He spoke of Occidental College as the representative Presbyterian college in Southern California. Rev. C. M. Fisher of Tustin spoke on "Our Young People and Missions," taking up the work that the young people can do for the missions, and touching also on Christion education and the preparation of missionaries for their work. Rev. W. S. Young gave an account of the Presbyterian raily at the Washington convention, where the Presbyterian for their work. Rev. W. S. The great and many-sided work before the endeavorers was earnestly dwelt upon, and suggestions made as to the best way in which to carry it on. The afternoon session was closed with the admittance of Rev. D. A. McRae, formerly of the presbytery of Victoria, B. C., to the pastorate of the Third Presbyterian Church of this city.

EVENING SESSION.

The evening session was attended by a large gathering of Christian Endeavorers and those interested in their work. A praise service was followed by a brief address by Dr. W. H. He also read the model of the constitution of the Presbyterian Union, which is to be presented to the presbytery for approprial. deavorers and those interested in their tion of the Presbyterian Union, which is to be presented to the presbytery for approval.

Rev. L. F. Laverty, pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church and retiring moderator, delivered an address, sketching the history of Presbyterianism from its origin to the present day, and touching specially upon the vital points. He said that Presbyterianism was practiced from the earliest ages, and goes back in its origin to the very beginning of the family. The terrible persecutions suffered by the Presbyterians in bygone centuries were vividly pictured, and their immovable faith held up as an example for those of today. Today men and women will change their convictions too often and easily. The history of the Presbyterian Church is a history to stir the blood. The goodly heritage of this age was bought by the blood of those who fought and suffered for it centuries ago. Presbyterianism has stood for ages for truth, for conviction, and for education, and it should have the loyalty of its followers. Calvinism is professed by the largest body of Christians on the face of the globe, for the Congregationalists, Baptists and Presbyterians all believe in Calvinism. The church that has Presbyterical representation has civil government. The presbytery corresponds with the city government, the synod with the State, and the general assembly with Congress.

The speaker urged the young people to stand for something, to take their convictions into some church and then stand for them, and let the world know of it.

Under clear skies, with enough mel-low sunshine to make the ocean breeze acceptable, the annual fair and fall races of the Sixth District Agricultural Association began yesterday.

The clouds hungs so low and were of such ominous darkness Sunday evening as to fill the directors' hearts with of a possible downpour on the and opening day of the fair. But sun shone through the vapors yesthe sun shone through the vapors yes-terday morning, and throughout the day, so steadily and with such fervor to dispel all thoughts of aught but ropitious weather for fair week.

The finest and fattest of cattle and hogs, the latest inventions in agricultural ma-chinery, with much that is new and novel in other lines of merchandise, may be seen at the fair grounds from this until Saturday evening next. the time at the half being 0:52%. The running in the stretch was a bit too sultry for Don Pio Pio, and he dropped back a notch or two, while Grady forged to the front in a style that proved the wisdom of those lucky folk who had waged their coin on his running qualities in the derby. With but little urging he drew away from his field, finishing an easy winner, with several lengths to spare, making the mile in 1:43%. Rebellion and Don Pio Pico fought it out for second place honors, the former getting the place by a short neck. Emma R. was a poor fourth, and Alessaido took his station with the "also rans." THE MAIDEN PLATE.

running event, Maiden Plate, six litrologis, for two-year-olds. It brought out a nice lot of runners, and the talent was very much at sea, in the matter of picking a winner. El Venado and Minta Owen were finally made the choice, but the talent preferred the field, and its preference proved a wise one.

The start was easily made, again with the "gate," and all seemed to appreciate the promptness with which this usually tiresome proceeding was executed. Validos, a beautiful black gelding, owned by the Los Angeles stables, cut out the running for the first 100 yards, but Sharon Lass and Cordova were close to him, and before the half-mile post was passed had relegated Validos to third place, and were themselves battling for the lead. El Venado was fifth, a length behind Minta Owen, while in the rear trailed Chatawa and Billy Bryan. Around the turn the field strung out in a circus parade fashion, with Cordova and Sharon Lass at the head of the column. The finish was a hard and the turn the field strung out of circus parade fashion, with Cordova and Sharon Lass at the head of the column. The finish was a hard and bitter whipping affair with enough ginger in it to have stirred the blood of a Connecticut Puritan. Cordova took first money, much to the rejoicing of the Santa Anita stables contingent, while Sharon Lass and Valdos had to be content with second and

TROTTING, 2:14 CLASS.

Only in the last race of the day-the 2:14 trot for a purse of $1000—di-the 2:14 trot for a purse of $1000—did the talent fall down and spend its good money for nought. Out of a field of five good horses, Mamie Griffin was made the favorite, selling in the pools for $25, while Jasper Ayres brought but $10, and the field $4. The field contained such good ones as Galette, Challenger Chief and Chris Peterson. The trotters scored but twice in geting the word, with Mamie Griffin hugging the pole and Jasper Ayres on the outside. Jasper showed his mettle by measuring even up with the favorite at the quarter post, which was passed in 0:34%. The leaders kept together quarter post was reached. Mamie Griffin was at his throat-latch then and stayed there until half way around the course, when she repeated her breaking performance, and gave way to Galette, who had been traveling in third place the while. Galette developed unlooked for speed and passed Perkins's horse around the turn, coming into the stretch a length and a half ahead of the field. Such a lead, however, he could not maintain, and Jasper Ayres, by a splendid sprint, cut it down, and finished a winner from Chris Peterson and Galette by two lengths: time 2:14%. After this heat the betting was all in the direction of Jasper Ayres, but the glorious uncertainties of horse-racing were well illustrated in the third heat of this race. Galette, whose performances on the preceding heats had been looked upon as "flukes," surprised the talent by annexing the third heat, leading the field throughout, and winning in 2:15%, Jasper Ayres second and Chris Peterson third. Mamie Griffin destroyed her chance by indulging in a break down the stretch.

In the pools Jasper Ayres now sold for $10 to the fields $2, and but few choice.

Juliet D., another one of Durfee's animals, was given rather the worst of the start in the second heat, being a length in the rear of the field when the word was given. Jennie Mc, as before, drew away from the other "wisglers" and as before George R., a horse which last year started in a gentleman's road race, followed him, a good second, until past the three-quarter post. Then the pace became too speedy for the exroadster, and he dropped inconsistently to the rear. Beachwood assumed second place, but Durfee, behind the game little Jennie Mc, was so sure of the heat that he pulled up and won in a walk, with a half dozen lengths to spare. The time was, as before, 2:15 flat, Beachwood and San Luisito getting second and third places respectively. Jennie Mc was conceded the race before the third heat was decided, but Durfee did not smile the smile of the triumphant until the judges hung out

THE EBELL.

The first social meeting of the season of the Ebell was held yesterday afternoon at the new room of the society, No. 107 South Flower street. Miss Grace Dennen read an exceedingly interesting paper on the origin and development of the opera in France, Germany and Italy, and Miss Ripley rendered several plano numbers, illustrative of the theme. The new rooms are seven in number, en suite, and are pretaily and coslly furnished. There are three assembly rooms, a president's room and an executive room.

DESMOND-SHIELDS.

The wedding of Miss Mary Agnes Desmond, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Desmond, and Alexander M. Shields, last evening, at the home of the bride's parents on South Hill street, was a very pretty affair though extremely quiet, only the immediate relatives being present. The ceremony was performed at 7 o'clock by Bishop Montgomery. The bride wore a handsome traveling gown. The rooms were effectively decorated with potted palms and plants, La France roses and plnk and white cosmos. The bridal party gathered in the bay window of the front drawing-room, where potted plants were arranged as a pretty bower. Overhead was draped a net, caught thickly with smilax and cosmos. Indian baskts about the rooms were heaped with La France roses, and cosmos, while in the dining-pom, where a supper was served, the table was artistically decorated with the same roses. The Mendelssohn "Wedding March" was rendered by Theodore Martens and G. E. Quinan, piano and violin, and during the ceremony "Traumerei" was softly played. Mr. and Mrs. Shields left last evening for New York and an' extended eastern tour. They will be at home after December 1, at No. 1217 West Twenty-Third street.

Club, consisting of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Hole, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Gould.

The first settler in La Habra was A. F. Berdine, who located there in November, 1894. Since that time the normalition has increased to about thirty-five families, or over one hundred and fifty individuals. About five hundred acres have been planted to citrus and deciduous fruits, great quantities of potatoes, onions, pumpkins, corn, etc., have been raised. Upon visiting this valley one is impressed with the idea that the people have great faith in their location, as the valley is dotted with comfertable houses of more than ordinary style and cost. The home of W. J. Hole is here, and is, in its appointments, beauty of architecture and surroundings, surpassed by few in the county. La Habra Valley is being very successfully developed, and the people deserve great credit for their progressive spirit. School opened in the new schoolhouse Octobr 12.

Changing a Street Name.

Changing a Street Name.

The citizens of the recently annexed district of Highland Park held a well attended meeting at the home of G. W. Morgan last evening. They unanimously passed a resolution asking that the name of Buena. Vista street be changed to Pasadens avenue, and that the intersecting streets be numbered avenues, beginning at Ord street, which shall be Seventh avenue. They believe that this system will be much less confusing than the present one of insignificant streets with insignificant names.

GRAND JURY CHOSEN.

HERMAN WASHBURN APPOINTED FOREMAN OF NINETEEN MEN.

Jurors Have Been Selected in the Wong Chee Murder Trial. City Justices on Demurrer—Review of the Courts.

A grand jury was impaneled in Judge Smith's department yesterday. This body is composed of nineteen persons possessing property and other qualifications. The thirty men summoned a few days ago reported promptly, but no less than five or six claimed to be in ill-health and presented physicians' certificates to show their physical disabilities. From various causes the ranks became so decimated that it became necessary to issue a special venire of ten names. From this number the deficit was made good, and the court appointed Sherman. Washburn foreman and instructed Deputy Clerk Logan to administer the oath of office. This was done, and the other members assented to a modified form of oath. Following are the names of the grand jury as now organized for work:

George H. Pike, Charles A. Coffman, John Burns, C. M. Parker, Edwin J. Vawler, R. R. Russell, James O. Vosburg, J. E. Jennison, J. W. Woifskill. Sherman Washburn, Wesley Bunnell, Ellhu Smead, Cyrus Brown, Benjamin A. Breakey, John E. Plater, Niles Pease, William T. Strawbridge, C. H. Gardiner, Fred W. Stein.

The court instructed the jury at considerable length upon its duties, as embodied principally under section 928 of the Penal Code.

Emphasis was placed upon the jury's duty to employ experts and look searchingly into the conduct of the several county offices. "And." added the court, "I wish to impress upon you that it lies within your duty to examine into and expert the books of the city officials. When I gave this instruction a year ago there was some question as to my authority to so instruct you, but I believed I was right then, and I am confident it is your duty to look into the city's books and expert them."

Judes Smith asked the jury to also bers were cautioned against needlessly searching for such causes, but asked to give respectful consideration to any such that may be reported to them. The court also called attention to the efficient work being done by the District Attorney's office, and intimated that it was improbable that crime was not vigorously fereted out, but reminded the jury of its duty along these lines. The members were cautioned against emotionalism and told that it was most difficult to effect a conviction upon indictment, owing to technicalities and other legal propositions that follow such findings.

Instructions were also given regarding the power and duty of the grandigry to employ an expert or experts, whose abilities must be first class. The law fixes the compensation of an expert at $5 per day.

As respects legal counsel, the jury was told that it should consult with the District Attorney upon questions requiring a knowledge of the law. The court may also be consulted.

The importance of secrecy was referred to at some length. The court reminded the members that any one of them guilty of disclosing any proceeding, investigation or discussion was guilty of a misdemeanor and would be prosecuted under the law. During the investigation and discussion of questions in the jury-room, neither witnesses, the District Attorney nor his representatives should be permitted to be present. The court itself should be excluded.

Bartholomew appeared before Judge Van Dyke with their attorneys yesterday, in the matter of their petition for an order directing the Board of Supervisors to place their names upon the election fickets for city justices, and include the same in the election proclamation.

The District Attorney entered a general demurrer and the legal points were discussed at some length. One of the grounds of the demurrer was that the Governor did not include city justices in his proclamation.

The question was finally submitted upon briefs. The District Attorney was allowed two days to file his brief and the plaintiffs were granfed one day to answer.

The law requires the Board of Supervisors to publish the election proclamation fifteen days before election,

The young woman is in an interesting condition, and charges that their unholy relations continued for about two months, when Gardner grew weary of her, refused to keep his promise of marriage, and has evaded her upon every occasion.

Gardner is a barber as well as a ball player. Both parties are colored.

The defendant was arrested by Deputy Constable Dave Martin a few minutes after the warrant had been placed in his hands, and was brought before Justice Young. His examination was set for next Tuesday, October 20, with bonds fixed in the sum of $500, Gardner was unable to give bail, and was placed behind the bars at the county bastile.

Nearly all of yesterday was consumed in selecting a jury, and at the hour for adjournment only ten jurors had been impaneled. The lists had been exhausted and it became necessary to issue a special venire of ten names. Wong Chee was murdered in Chinatown nearly three months ago by high-binders, and the defendants are charged with his assassination.

The Santa Anita stables were represented by Alessaido, a sorrel gelding, which had marks of a racehorse in sufficient number to draw quite a following for him in the ring. In the pools, Grady sold the favorite at $10, the field bringing but $6. Betting was comparatively brisk at these figures.

A deal of the crowd's interest centered in the starting gate, which was used yesterday in the Los Angeies derby for the first time in Southern alifornia. The gate has been described before and repeatedly, but familiar as thas become to San Francisco racetoers, it was a novelty to the local racetrack and attracted very much itanion from all. The gate was operated by Ben Benjamin, sporting editor of the San Francisco Chronicle. His management of the device was beyond criticism, although in the opinion the some the mechanism of the gate ould have been adjusted to better advantage than it was.

There were no vexatious delays in the use of the gate, the horses getting way to a fair start but a few mintes after their appearance on the rack. The Democratic city convention re-assembled yesterday morning and put in an hour collecting an asssessment of four bits from each delegate. That important business having been important business having been done, the fusion row was reopened. J. Marlon Brooks presented the majority report of the Conference Committee, which changed the apportionment of Council-men and school directors, so as to give the Democrats the Councilmen from the the First, Third, Fourth, Fifth, Sixth and Seventh Wards and school directors from the Second, Third, Fourth, Fifth, Eighth and Ninth Wards, giving to the Populists the Councilmen from the Second, Eighth and Ninth Wards and Second, Eight and whith wards and school directors from the First, Sixth and Seventh Wards. The committee said the report must be accepted as a whole or fusion would fall. Delegates Petzer and Monahan prein the city, to the Populists, as the Eighth would never ratify such an arrangement. We recommend that the Eighth Ward be left open to both parties to nominate candidates."

Dr. Kurtz moved that the majority report be adopted in part, and that ward nominations be left to the wards. Dr. Humphreys made a speech about the Boston Tea party, the stamp act and the Chicago convention, which was supposed to have some bearing upon the fusion of Democrats and Populists in the Eighth Ward.

and the Republicans would remain in power.

Delegate Crawford objected to giving the nomination of City Attorney to the Pops, because there was only one lawyer in the Populist party, and he was ineligible because he had not been admitted to practice. Mr. Crawford was ruled out of order, because a motion to take a recess of thirty minutes had been made in the confusion.

Oscar Hinters, who seemed to have a mania for dragging the "Labor Council" into every debate, got up and registered a kick at the chairman. He said he had arisen several times, but had not been recognized, and he accused the chairman of unfairness and of recognizing only his friends.

"Whack! whack! whack!" said the chairman's gavel. "Sit down!" said the chairman. Hinters did not sit down, and the sergeant-at-arms was directed to suppress him. Hinters, Hinters, still talking incoherently about the "Labor Council," was forced into his seat, and the chairman proceeded to read a lecture to him on the turpi-tude of his conduct. At the end of the lecture, Hinters was permitted to speak, and he made some irrelevant remarks about Snyder, and the labor vote.

The impossibility of arriving at any settlement of the fusion muddle in convention became so apparent that a motion to adjourn until 1 o'clock to give the wards time to settle the question for themselves was made and carried.

question for themselves was made and carried.

The ward delegations affected by fusion held caucuses at once. A majority of the Ninth Ward voted for fusion, but Delegate Chandler would not be placated, and refused to be bound by the action of the majority. He would not fuse, and that settled it so for as he was concerned.

bound by the action of the majority. He would not fuse, and that settled it so far as he was concerned.

The Eighth Ward was willing to sacrifice the Second on the altar of fusion, but viewed with alarm the prospect of losing its own place at the pie counter. It was in vain that the delegates were told that the whole scheme of fusion would fail if tinkered with in any part. The Eighth had no confidence in the committee, and said the members were Populists instead of Democrats, and were playing into the hands of the long-whiskered politicians. Retzer declared that the Second would not submit to any fusion arrangement that deprived that ward of its Councilman. A committee of three from the Eighth was appointed to confer with the Pops and ascertain if a compromise candidate could be selected, said compromise candidate to be an Eighth Ward Democrat, of course.

The result of the ward caucuses did not promote harmony crat, of course.

The result of the ward caucuses did not promote harmony, and when the convention reassembled, the row broke forth with renewed virulence.

A motion to proceed with nominations was made, and J. M. Brooks spoke against it. Chandler offered a motion that fusion be knocked in the head, and that the convention name a straight Democratic ticket from top to bottom. The delegates yelled, "No, no!" and Chandler's motion was not seconded.

Delegate Montgomery made an appeal for patrictic sacrifice of petty ambitions and complete fusion with the allies of Democracy, and his speech aroused the enthuslasm of the connection. Had any delegate seized the opportunity to bring the question to a vote at the conclusion of Montgomery's speech, the matter might have been settled with a hurrah and a rush, but the opportunity was lost, and the whole row was reopened by melcontent Second and Eighth warders.

all the people of one belief in this city, and we make this proposition: If you can show that 50 per cent. of the voters who voted at the Eighth Ward Democratic primarles are on the Great Register, we will concede to you every office on the ticket."

Delegate Crawford. "That is an insult to this convention."

Dahl. "We, as citizens demand that

RECORD OF THE COLONEL WILL BE INVESTIGATED.

Reward Offered for a Courageous Volunteer Who Will Aid in the Extermination of the Dog.

At 2:30 p.m. yesterday the directors of the Hurled Publishing Company met, as usual, in the South Alameda street barn. The directors were all present, namely, Messrs. Amlittle, Canlittle, Doolittle, Damlittle and the president, Mr. Howlittle.

The president announced that the first business before the house was to hear the report of the committees which had been appointed at the previous meeting, as follows:

On Circulation-Mr. Amlittle. On Times—Mr. Canlittle.
On Colonel—Mr. Doolittle.
On Dog—Mr. Damlittle. On Suckers-The president. The committees presented written re-

The committees presented written reports, as follows:

"Your Committee on Circulation has investigated the subject as fully as the complicated condition of the books permit, and finds that the circulation is at present increasing very slowly. There has been a considerable increase of free copies; a small increase in the 25-cent-a-month circulation and a slight falling off in the regular 50-cent-a-month circulation. In investigating this subject your committee has been confronted with the remarkable and not very encouraging fact that some people even refuse to take the Hurled for nothing. This appears to indicate to your committee that there should be some change made in the tone of the paper, and it must be admitted that when people refuse to take a paper for nothing there must be something wrong about it. Your committee would further report that there is danger in still further increasing the free circulation of the paper, unless some more satisfactory arrangements can be made to stand off the paper dealers. In regard to the claim recently made by the Hurled of a larger circulation than that of The Times, your committee congratulates the company upon the fact that The Times, apparently, has no intention of taking up the bluff.

(Signed)

"Committee on Times begs to report that a trusted member of the Hurled staff has been detailed for the express purpose of watching The Times and obtaining points that might be used in the campagn against that publication. An attack has been commenced on The Times for the purpose of getting people to believe that it is a hireling of the City Water Company, which it hopes will have a good effect, and secure a few more deadheads, and even possibly a few more half-price subscribers. This discussion having been started so early in the municipal campaign, the Hurled will have plenty of time to 'hedge' before the date of the municipal election, in case the water company should hold out substantial inducements.

(Signed)

"Your Committee on Clonel has the pleasure to announce that arrangements have been made with a firm of private detectives in Chicago for the purpose of hunting up details of the colonel, when attending school, had purloined a watermelon from at the colonel, when attending school, had purloined a watermelon from at circulation and a slight falling off in the regular 50-centshindy, became harmonious as soon as the row was over, and proceeded to nominate candidates.

C. H. Hance was nominated for Clerk, J. H. Dockweller for Engineer, J. R. Rush for Attorney, L. S. Seamans for Assessor, A. M. Salyer for Tax Collector, A. B. Workman for Treasurer, S. E. Fulton for Auditor and James E. Frick for Street Superintendent.

Delegate Monigomery introduced a resolution opposing the repeal of the mortgage tax laws, and talked about "bloated bondholders," "leecherous usurers," etc., until the convention called his down and tabled his resolution.

usurers," etc., until the convention called his down and tabled his resolution.

J. M. Brooks moved amendments to the platform, admitting women to public employment and roasting the Sunset Telephone Company, which were adopted.

The convention resolved itself into ward conventions, and after a recess of half an hour, reconvened as a whole and received reports of nomimutions for the Council and Board of Education. All the wards except the eighth abided by the decision of the convention on the fusion plan. The Eighth repudlated the action of the convention and nominated Thomas F. Savage for Councilman.

A long and bitter contest followed, The delegates from the Eighth would listen to no argument, but stuck to Tom Savage, and the rest of the convention positively refused to ratify the nomination.

E. L. Hutchison, who had been nominated by the Populists for Councilman in the Eighth, appeared and addressed the convention. He said he had been offered the city clerkship and anything else on the ticket if he would get out of Savage's way in the Eighth, but he had refused to listen to any offers. "I'll not stand in the way of fusion," he said, "but I'll take the Eighth ward. I have made an offer that no man has dared to accept. I'll offer it again. Show that 50 per cent. of the votes at the primary were honest and legal and I'll retire. You dare not accept the challenge. I now say that nothing can prevent me from taking the Eighth Ward and showing up the politics of this city."

Savage's friends tried to counteract the effect of Hutchison's defiant chal.

information that has led us to believe that we may succeed in proving that the colonel, when attending school, had purloined a watermelon from a neighbor's field. The detective firm informs us that it would probably cost about $250 (cash in advance) to follow out this clew, and prove the truth of the rumor. Your committee recommends that the amount would be well invested, as it would, in the opinion of your committee, he a fatal politics of this city."

Savage's friends tried to counteract the effect of Hutchison's defiant challenge by sneering, but they did not have the nerve to deny that the primary election in the Eighth Ward was fraudulent. The convention refused to ratify ulent. The convention refused to ratify the nomination of Savage, and adopted a resolution indorsing Hutchison and advising all good Democrats in the ward to vote for him. The convention then adjourned.

"Meantime, the artist of the Hurled has been authorized to go to any length in his attacks upon the Colonel. (Signed)

"W. DOOLITTLE,

"Committee on Dog is pleased to be able to report that the dog has been unwell for several days past, in consequence of swallowing a portion of the pants of a Hurled distributor. This your committee regards as a distinct victory for the Hurled. If one of the employes of the Hurled could be induced to submit to be bitten through the pants by the dog, your committee is strongly of the opinion that the animal would die. For this reason your committe te recommends that the sum of $10$ be offered as gratuity to any employe of the Hurled who will agree to submit to the operation. Then it would be easy for the Hurled to make capital out of the affair by denouncing the dog and its master in the columns of the paper, and, possibly, by bringing suit for damages against one or both of them.

(Signed) "G. DAMLITTLE, "Committee on Dog," "Your Committee on Suckers wrote to a firm of publishers in Chicago who issue 3500 "patent ouisides" for weekly papers throughout the country, asking for a bid on the insertion of a short advertisement, and have received by telegraph an offer to place the advertisement in each paper for four weeks for $250, which your committee considers a very moderate sum, but in the present state of finances of the Hurled Company would recommend that an attempt be made to get the publishers to wait for their pay until some of the suckers shall have been caught. Your committee has drawn up a short advertisement, as follows:

SOFT WORK AT HOME—AN AGENT WANT-ed to secure a person with a few thousand dollars capital for investment in one us a most flourishing papers in the United States, for the purpose of increasing the already immense circulation. No knowledge of the business or active participation in it required. Liberal commission paid.

"Your committee is of the opinion that, estimating moderately each of these advertisements should bring at least one good agent, and that each agent should secure at least three suckers, with an average of say $3000. This would make an aggregate sum of $31,500,00, or much more than was estimated at the previous meeting. This amount, your committee believes, if judiciously invested, would be sufficient to down The Times, the Colonel and the Dog within ten years, or perhaps even sooner.

(Signed) "O. HOWLITTLE."

The president's report was received with loud applause, and the directors began to congratulate each other, as if (Signed) "G. DAMLITTLE, "Committee on Dog."

they already saw a big dividend in sight.

Mr. Canlittle then arose and said that, while he did not wish to cast any damper on the bright prospects that had been outlined by the president, he must once more suggest that they should have a committee, or at least a sub-committee, on Running the Hurled. He considered it really necessary that they should devote a little time to that important matter.

The president said that the members of the board were all busy with other important committees, and that he did not see how they could at present devote any time to the general business of the Hurled.

After discussion, it was finally agreed to appoint the janitor of the uptown important committees, and that he did not see how they could at present devote any time to the general business of the Hurled.

After discussion, it was finally agreed to appoint the janitor of the uptown office and the business manager as a special committee to act with Director Amilitie of the Committee on Circulation in running the Hurled, while the other directors are busy attending to The Times, the Colonel, the Dog and the Suckers.

Director Amilitie remarked that, like Mr. Canlittle, he was averse to bringing up unpleasant subjects at a time when the financial outlook of the paper was apparently so bright, but he could not refrain from observing that, while they were waiting for that $30,000,000 or so, they should devote a little care to keeping their heads above water at present, or the paper would be likely to be driven to the wall before they could even catch another sucker, much less cook him. He wanted to ask how on earth they had managed to get into such a hole as this libel suit, brought by the agent of a physician who had been attacked in the paper. First, they had made themselves ridiculous by attacking this man, and then had taken it all back as soon as they found they were hurting some of their advertisers. On top of this they had to confront a libel suit for $20,000, which would cost them a lot of money, even if they won it.

The president said that he regretted the matter as much as any of his brother directors, and to avoid the recurrence of such bad breaks the editor had been instructed not to print a line of matter in the paper that contained any body (except The Times) without a special authorisation from the board of directors.

Director Doolittle said that he hoped there would be no unnecessary delay in realizing upon the suckers, because it was evident that they must have a new press without delay, if they were to even pretend to compete with The Times, "Once more," he said, "on Monday last the paper was not delivered to subscribers until about noon, while the despicable morning sheet

The president admitted that Mr. Doo little's points were well taken. He as sured the directors that not an unnec sured the directors that not an unnecessary hour would be lost in the effort to secure more suckers, in order that the Hurled might appear on time. He added that they would not even wait for the first regular investing sucker, but would try to bridge over the gap that must elapse until they got adother big sucker by trying to hire as reporters some small suckers who are willing to invest even a few hundred doilars in the stock of the Hurled Publishing Company.

McKinley Buttons and Literature.

The California State League of Republican Clubs, with headquarters in the Stowell Block, has received from the National Republican League a large shipment of McKinley buttons, lithographs, posters and song books. Several cases of excellent sound-money literature have also been received from the Sound Money League of Pennsylvania and will be distributed as soon as it is possible to make up the packages.

The State League has sent out over half a million pleces of campaign literature, which has been used very effectively by the many organizations with which it affiliates. The distribution of this matter in the furming sections has changed as many as twenty-five votes in a single precinct. The Populistic printed matter which is being sent out by the other side, is trashy, and altogether too gauzy for thinking people.

Republicans and the friends of sound money are invited to visit the headquarters of the league, and secure material for carrying on the good work.

The silver certificates in circulation are backed by an equal amount of silver dollars in the treasury. The treasury notes are backed by silver bullion and silver dollars, and are protected by the gold reserve in the treasury. I make this correction because the Popocratic orators complain because the Secretary does not pay out more silver.

cratic orators complain because the Secretary does not pay out more silver. Certainly $41,166,529 is not too large a silver reserve to protect $525,793,049 of silver worth only half that much. Here is one of the unkind cuts that Mr. Cleveland has received from his own party: His Congress, through incompetency, caused a deficit of $262,000,040 in the running expenses of the government, forcing a bond issue. Now they heap abuse upon him because he did not pay it off with this pairty $41,166,527, much of which was not legal tender.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIA L

OFFICE OF THE TIMES. Los Angeles, Oct. 12, 1896. LAND LOANS IN GERMANY. In connection with the prevailing demand in this country for more money, it is of interest to note a system that has been successfully introduced in Ger many for the advancing of cheap loans to farmers. In the September number of the Consular Reports, our commercial agent at Plauen, Saxony, gives full details of the operations of the Saxon Land Credit Association, which last year loaned $8,659,087 to its members at 3, 35 or 4 per cent. The association loans on mortgages, and issues its own loans on mortgages, and issues its own certificates in convenient amounts, bearing the same rate of interest as the mortgages and secured by them. These certificates are sold in the market, and pass from hand to hand like Government bonds. The total amount of these loans now outstanding is nearly $47,000,000. These certificates are now quoted in the market at a premium of 2.85 per cent, for 3½ per cent, loans and 2.8 per cent, for 4 per cent, loans and 2.8 per cent, for 4 per cent, loans and 2.8 per cent, for 4 per cent, loans and 2.8 per cent, for 4 per cent, loans and 2.8 per cent, for 4 per cent, loans and 2.8 per cent, for 5 per cent, loans and 2.8 per cent, for 5 per cent, loans and 2.8 per cent, for 5 per cent, loans and 2.8 per cent, for 5 per cent, loans and 2.8 per cent, for 5 per cent, loans for the past year seems to have been 3 per cent.

3 per cent.
What would the farmers of California think if they could borrow money at 3 per cent. or even at 5 per cent.?
In making his report the consul says:
"The cry for cheap money that is sounding over the West and South is the same cry that went up from the German land owners and farmers, and they were only relieved by mutual cooperation."

operation."

The plan adopted in Saxony is, in detail, essentially the same as that of American building and loan associations, but with some modifications. The money is supplied by farmers who have a surplus and is used by those who need to borrow.

Might it not be possible to introduce something similar to this system in the United States, in order to assist the farming community in tiding over periods when they are in need of financial assistance?

COMMERCIAL.

FALSE WINE LABELS. A re decision made by Judge Caldwell of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals has an important bearing on a practice which has become all too common in this country, namely, the affixing of fraudulent brands or labels on goods, so as to make out that they are imported goods, when in reality they have been produced in this country. This is especially the case with wines, as there is a certain class of people who are willing to pay three times as much for American wine under a foreign label. Judge Caldwell's decision is to the effect that it is fraudulent for any concern to brand spirits or wine with United States Circuit Court of Appeals the effect that it is fraudulent for any concern to brand spirits or wine with foreign labels, and that such bogus branded goods are liable to seizure. Commenting upon this decision, the San Francisco Chronicle says, editorially:

"Few people know how wide is the practice of making one kind of wine or brandy and calling it another. In a general way it is understood that California wine is sometimes made to masquerade under a French label so as to give it sale among the 'connoisseurs,' fornia wine is sometimes made to masquerade under a French label so as to give it sale among the 'connoisseurs,' who look askance at the wine of the country, but the public hardly appreciates the full extent of the mischlef. It is the rule rather than the exception in the great eastern hotels and restaurants to play this trick. One celebrated boniface has said, speaking in vino veritas, that he could not sell the California vintage at 50 cents a bottle, but he could readily dispose of it as Chateau Margaux, or something of the kind, for $2.50. There are not many hotel-keepers capable of holding back when their cheap wine stock is called for at such figures, and the net result is to deprive the California product of its good name for the benefit of a competitive industry. To make matters worse, some of the vilest decoctions of logwood, such as retail at 5 cents a pint, are at the same time put out under California labels. The trade in this liquid poison has become very large.

"In this city the offenders against the law which Judge Caldwell lave down."

logwood, such as retail at 5 cents a pint, are at the same time put out under Callfornia labels. The trade in this liquid poison has become very large.

"In this city the offenders against the law which Judge Caldwell lays down are numerous, and they have reached a high degree of skill in their fraudulent industry. There are local houses which carry nothing but California wines, and their imitations, yet a customer can have an order filled in them for any European vintage while he waits. He gets bottles of the shape he expects, accurately labeled and corked, and packed in the proper boxes, the latter being branded like the legitimate ones and supplied with counterfeit shipping marks. Such bogus outfits, known to the trade as 'skeletons,' are sent here from Chicago, the seat of their principal manufacture, and sent out again, every bottle filled, to all parts of the city, State and Coast where 'imported' wines are in demand. Twentyfive or fifty cents invested in a California to the label, and this within a few blocks, perhaps, of where the beverage has been pressed out.

"For the good name of the State vintage it is to be hoped that the growers and honest dealers in California where and spirits will combine to enforce the law. The California products can make their way under their own titles if they are given a fair chance, and in the long run there would be more money in them than in the spurious product selling even at the highest price. Honesty is the best policy in all trades for buyers and sellers alike."

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WHE)

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—The stock market today, on a comparatively light and poorly distributed volume of business, was irregular and feverish in tone. Lower London prices for American securities, a firmer tendency in foreign exchange and continued stiffness in money rates, together with disappointing railroad traffic returns for the first week in October, comprise the bear material. As usual recently, the specialities mospolized the attention of the professional dealers, and in the entire list only a few stocks scored noteworthy totals. On the stocks mentioned ilquidation first became clearly apparent and exerted a sympathetic unfavorable influence on the general list. The general market opened weak and lower under moderate offerings for both accounts, Sugar being the weak cline in the effect was partly attributed to statistical reports reciting the heavy inroads that have been made of foreign grades of the product upon the territory of the American company. The extreme loss was 1½ per cent, the stock touching 165%, and closing only a slight fraction higher. During the first hour the market generally was irregular, with a sagging tendency. Supporting orders appeared in some instances at the early low points, which influenced a reactal recovery in the general list. Renewed pressure, however, soon started the list again on the down grade. In the early afternoon railies occurred on covering of shorts. Realization was the chief influence in unsettling prices in the late dealings. The closing was dull at slight fractional declines. The sales of bonds were $48,000.

Government bonds were weak and slightly lower on sales of $44,000. Sliver certificates were notably weak, receding 1 per cent. on offerings of $36,000.

CHICAGO, Oct. 12.—Wheat opened at a slight decline from Saturday's close. The government crop report indicated the total spring and winter crop to be about four hundred and thirteen million bushels. That favored the bulls, but the receipts here and in the Northwest were heavy to come from such a smail crop, and that stimulated the bears. Liverpool was unchanged, according to the first cablegrams received, but Berlin started at from 1½ to 2½ marks advance. The opening transactions for December were the lowest during the day. The subsequent rise was slow and stubbornly contested at first, for there was much in the day's domestic news to encourage selling by all but the most entusiastic of the bull crowd. The foreign news was, however, of a strongly bullish flavor, except as regarded the shipments from (BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE.) to encourage selling by all but the most enthusiastic of the buil crowd in the foreigness was, however, of stronger builts from the control of the control o

WHITTIER.
WHITTIER, Oct. 12—(Regular Correspondence.) About dusk Saturday evening the dwellers on North Painter avenue were startled by a boisterous and vicious attack upon H. D. Williams, editor of the Register, by a young fellow named Levi Neal, who designs starting a billiard saloon here, and who took offense at an article in Friday's issue of the Register.

Neal having driven in his wagon to the residence, startled the family by thundering at the door with the heavy handle of his whip, and the announcement that he had "come to knock h—li out of Williams," whom he immediately sought, where he was feeding his cow on his premises. With a volley of vile epithets, he demanded that Williams should take back what he said in his paper and apologize. As the editor declined to do this, the assailant, prefacing the expression with a terrible oath, evoluting diffil kill you then." and clined to do this, the assailant, prefac-ing the expression with a terrible oath, exclaimed, "I'll kill you then," and bringing a sweep to strike with the but of his heavy whip-handle, broke it in the smaller part by to quick a motion, and arrested or ever say anything about me."

Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Bailey were quickly on the scene, and the former brought the bully to his senses by threatening him with immediate arrest for breach of the peace if he didn't leave, which he proceeded to do without much tarrying. The victim of the assault escaped serious injury, but suffers severe pain from the blow in his side.

The people of Whittier have always opposed the introduction of billiard saloons, as they would become resorts of a lawless class from neighboring parts, who would have the town at their mercy, and they give their united support to the editor of the Register in his courageous warfare against them. Clitzens are deeply stirred by the outrage of Saturday, and demand that the law shall be invoked for its severest punishment.

PASADENA, Oct. 12.-(Regular Correspondence.) The City Council met in regular session this afternoon, but as there was no quorum, took an adjournthere was no quorum, took an adjourn-ment until 7:30 this evening, when it convened, three members being pres-ent and constituting a working force. The communication of Judge Stout on the deferment of the work on Garfield avenue was presented, B. F. Diehl also appearing to present a similar report, and the time for the hearing of the protest was accordingly set for Novemprotest was accordingly set for Novem-

A resolution of intention was introduced affecting the grading, curbing and guttering of North Orange Grove avenue, and a petition was presented on the work on East Colorado street. Referring to this document, the City Attorney called attention to the fact it asked that the street be plowed and wet and rolled, and that the contractors bidding for the work should describe the roller they intended to use. The City Attorney said that such a provision could not be legally made, that the law was explicit that the advertising should be such that the bidders should be able to give their bids in dollars and cents. He said also that the property-owners had shown a disposition to include in the petition things that the Council had told them could not be included, and that they showed no inclination that was apparent to do as the Council desired them to do in the matter. Accordingly he advised the board not to rescind the former resolutions, but instructed them that they could either accept the bid already in, or advertise for other bids. No action was taken, and when the bids for the Grand avenue work were opened, it was found that James H. Dovey and M. A. Hughes had put in a bid at the same figure, and the letting of the contract was referred to the Street and Alley Committee. The session was brief and uninteresting, and no important matters were brought forward for consideration.

SEQUEL TO THE SIMONS CASE. F. E. Simons, who was acquitted on Saturday of the charge of rape upon the F. E. Simons, who was acquitted on Saturday of the charge of rape upon the person of Lulu Dauterman, became involved in a quarrel with Mr. and Mrs. Holden, step-father and mother of the appeared before the Recorder and asked for a warrant for Holden's arrest on the charge of assault to comit murder, alleging that Holden had threatened to kill him, and had struck him over the head with a bottle. He exhibited a bad bruise in evidence of his statement. A few minutes later Mr. and Mrs. Holden came to the Recorder's office and stated that Simons had drawn a revolver and threatened to kill them, and that in self-defense Holden had struck him, and that in self-defense Holden had struck him, and they too wanted a warrant. The case will come up for a heaving before Recorder Rossiter Tuesday morning.

THE MOUNTAIN FIRES. It was thought on Saturday that the fires were completely sub dued and that the only thing necessary to be done now was to maintain a vigilant patrol along the region where the fires have raged, but this morning flames and smoke were seen issuing from Saucer Cafion, a region at some distance from the fires of Saturday, and through which the returning crew passed Saturday afternoon and reported that no trace of fire was to be found there. The flames and smoke have been seen all day, denoting that a great fire is in progress, and this morning Thomas Banbury started with another crew of twelve men to try to subdue it. The cafion in which the fire is apparently located is the left branch of Millard's Cafion, and is therefore in a dangerous neighborhood. Mayor Hartwell went up this afternoon, but as there has apparently been a brisk wind blowing on the mountains, the blaze has made great head-way. Some of the men who have been dued and that the only thing necessary a brisk wind blowing on the mountains, the blaze has made great headway. Some of the men who have been fighting the fire have said positively that it would have been impossible for the fire on Bron's Mountain to have reached Saucer Cañon, and are inclined to believe that the blaze of today is of very different origin, but those accustomed to mountain fires say that embers can be carried to a great distance in a strong wind, and think this one was created in that manner.

PASADENA BREVITIES.

As a sample of the manner in which the Bryan campaign is being worked here in Pasadena, the statements made by Joe Simons to reporters and others rgarding the so-called "Bryan wigwam," today are instanced. Simons asserted that when it was known that there was to be a wigwam erected, fifty carpenters, who had formerly been Republicans, volunteered their services free to the club. Upon investigation it was found that there were 'free' five men employed, and only one of them claims to have been a Republican. The others had nothing to do but hang around the corners, and as the work of construction was merely to fix up three rows of seats and a rude platform, carpenters were not required. Rough, unplaned lumber, propped up with boxes and anything that came handy is supposed to furnish the seating capacity for 400 persons, and there is neither floor nor covering for the so-called "wigwam," which is simply a make-shift of the poorest kind for outdoor speaking, and put together to avoid paying rent for the hall herstofore utilized for the Bryan pow-wows. Clarence U. Bunnelle of McDonald, Brooks & Co., had an anxious afternoon today, on account of failing to find in front of the First National Bank, where he had left them an hour before, his sorrel horse and single buggy. No one had seen any person take the rig, and it had disappeared completely. The town was searched, the services of the Marshal being hought into requisition, and finally being convinced that a thief had been at work, Mr. Bunnelle telephoned and telegraphed to different parts of the county a description of his property, and went out to Lamanda Park to see if the horse had been seen in that direction. About 7 o'clock this evening he learned that a man named Hughes, employed by the L. W. Blinn Lumber. Company, had mistaken the horse and rig for that owned by the firm, and had taken possession of it and had diven it all afternoon. When he returned it to the office of the company, it was recog attended, and was then sent to her home.

For the second time in the past few days, the Minneapolis Bakery team ran away this morning, having been left in the streets unwatched and unguarded, while the young man who distributes the pastry was interviewing a customer. The horses came down Fair Oaks avenue at a rapid rate of speed, turning the corner into Dayton street successfully. They were less fortunate when they attempted to turn into the stable yard, west of the fire engine-house, for they wheeled too short, crashed into the Los Angeles fransfer wagon standing in the yard, and sent the ples and cakes flying in a shower. The bakery vehicle was somewhat damaged, but the horses were unhurt. The practice of leaving such teams unhitched in the streets comes within the provisions of the ordinance, and the infrequency of arrests lately on that score has rendered such cases of carelessness more common.

GOOD THING RECOGNIZED BY

Sad Death in Santa Ana-A Petition to Disincorporate—Exciting Runaway—Jury Case in the Su-perior Court.

espondence.) The Republicans of Santa Ana generally recognize a good thing when they see it. For instance: Last Saturday a certain shee firm in this city, whose proprietors are of the Pop-ulistic faith, decided that there was an opening for them to make a nice little pile of money out of the campaign. It was to be done in this way: They would inaugurate a special sale of shoes with the understanding that if McKinley was elected the purchaser would not have to pay anything for would not have to pay anything for his pair of shoes, but if Bryan was elected he would be called upon to pay double the price of the footwear. Of course this was a very one-sided proposition, as the shoes would only stand the dealer their wholesale cost, while they would stand the purchaser twice their retail cost, providing he should lose the wager. But notwithstanding this fact the protection and sound money believers thought this a pretty good thing, and, to the surprise of the Populistic shoe dealers, began to roll in so rapidly to get shod that the situation grew alarming. The proprietors began to realize that if such a thing should happen that Mr. Bryan would not be elected it would be goodby to their stock of shoes, and, besides, they had no idea that the Republicans would have the courage to give such odds on McKinley's election. This morning the rush for shoes on this proposition continued, and finally the proprietors thought they had better withdraw their proposition, and they did.

A number of enthusiastic young Republicans, as well as some that were not quite so young as they used to be, thave called at The Times branch office to say that they are in need of a pair or two of good shoes, and if there is any other Populistic shoe dealer in the feet at this office.

For some time it has been said that the town of Orange would probably consider the matter of disincorporation, and now it is stated that a petition asking the Board of Trustees to take up the matter will be presented at the next regular meeting of the Trustees. disincorporation.

For the past year Orange has been having a hard fight with the saloon element, which has been endeavoring to get a foothold in the town, but so far has been kept off. It is stated that this element is the factor that is pushing the disincorporation proposition. It is not probable that the town will disincorporate. The boundaries may be reduced somewhat, but even this is improbable. Orange is moving rapidly ahead, and its enterprising citizens are not apt to approve of the idea of whittling down the corporate limits to any great extent. great extent.

A SAD DEATH.

A double team, hitched to a light wagon, came tearing down the street at a terrific gait, narrowly missing a number of vehicles standing along the curb, in which were many women and children. When almost opposite the postoffice a young man by the name of Betts, who lives a short distance north of the city, ran out into the street, and as the runaways passed him caught onto the lines. The momentum of the team almost carried him off his feet, and hundreds of people watching the runaway thought the young fellow would surely be dragged to death, for by this time the horses were taking the young man so fast that his feet were scarcely touching the ground. Just at this time, however, an assistant came to his relief in the person of T. J. Wood, a recent arrival from New York, who ran up on the other side of the wagon and got hold of the other line. Both the men finally brought the team to a standstill, but not before young Betts received a painful bruise on his right foot. Hundreds of people were in the street when the team was stopped, and both men were heartily applauded for their bravery.

The Rev. P. E. He took for a text the parable of the young blind man whose sight was restored when he bathed in the pool of Siloam, after Jesus had anointed his eyes in clay. "This young man," said Mr. Kipp, "could not take Christ as his highest ideal, but he lived up to what he knew. When Jesus bathei his eyes in clay and told him to go and wash in the pool of Siloam, he only knew that he had a duty to perform, and did not reason over it. Multitudes stand right there and go no further. But the one thing is to obey. They wonder why this is exacted of them, and are unwilling to take the step that they know is in the line of their duty." So with the silverites. They know their duty is to do their duty, and pay their debts in honest money. Their eyes are blinded. They cannot see that sound money means honor and prosperity, and that cheap money means dishonor and adversity. SIGNIFICANT CORRESPONDENCE.

The young man came here from Scotland only a few months ago in the nope of regaining his health, but it seems he came too late for the climate of the coast to do him any good. He had expected to have an uncle meet him here, but through some misunderstanding no one was at the depot to meet him, and he went to the hotel, weak and exhausted from his long and wearysome trip. The exertion en route proved too much for the young man, and he gradually sank into that sleep that knows no waking.

SANTA BARBARA, Oct. 12 .- (Regular Correspondence.) The tourists are still doing the town, and their report differs somewhat from former occa-sions. The indications are that good winter apples will reach a high figure before appies will reach a high figure before the season is over. Los Angeles buyers have already secured practically the entire crop of the Lompoc Valley and are now in the Santa Maria Valley on the same mission. The price paid is not generally known, but is understood to be from $20 to $25 per ton in the orchard, the buyer furnishing the boxes and doing his own packing. These same apples will bring from 3 to 5 cents per pound before spring. Santa Barbara depends upon the local supply for fall apples, but consumes large quantities of winter apples from beyond the mountains. There are no worms in the apples from the northern part of the county. They are perfect in size, shape and color, highly flavored and the best of keepers. This year, when Santa Barbara sends for her usual winter supply she will find them scarce and will have to bid up to get them at all.

deeds for right-of-way on each separate place of private property. As a matter of couriesy to the owners they will each be requested to sign such a deed, the request to be made before commencement of condemnation proceedings. The several owners of private property across which the line of the proposed right-of-way will run are the Southern Pacific Company, the Pacific Improvement Company, the Pacific Improvement Company, A. J. W. Keating, Jones & Baker and the Mercantile Trust Company of New York. Communication with the last of the above named regarding the matter may take longer than was at first expected, so it may be nearly a month before the last of the condemnation suits can be brought.

The proposed sewer route runs partly around the Arcade Hotel, southerly along and in front of the bluff to Front street and thence along South Ocean avenue to Strand street.

me Forgotten Landmarks De-scribed—The Old Carillo House. The Historical Society met at the esidence of Mrs. Margaret Hughes at No. 14 St. James Park. An intelligent and appreciative audience honored the occasion. Mrs. M. Burton Williamson occasion. Mrs. M. Burton Williamson read a paper entitled "Why a Historical Society?" She gave a brief outline of what is being done in historical re-search. The United States govern-ment has expended $2,000,000 in historical work. There are 300 historical societies in the United States, and of these sixty-two are in Massachusetts. California has but three. The Los Angeles society is the only one in Southern California. This society has done a great deal of work with the limited means at its command. It has col-lected a valuable library and a number of curios. It has published over one thousand pages of historical matter, all of which has been derived from inousand pages of historical matter, all of which has been derived from original sources.

The paper was discussed by H. D. Barrows, J. M. Guinn and Dr. Moody. The secretary, J. M. Guinn, read a paper entitled "Historic Houses of Los Angeles and Their Builders." He told the story of the building of the old church of "Our Lady of the Angels." He described the Carrillo house, a famous landmark of the city, now almost forgotten. In it was celebrated the most famous marriage feast in California. It was on the occasion of the marriage of Don Pio Pico in 1834. Feasting and dancing were kept up for eight days and nights, and all the retainers of the houses of Pico and Carrillo from San Diego to Monterey-were gathered to do honor to the marriage celebration. He described the Stearns house, the Round house, Don Louis Vignes's castle of refuge and other famous houses.

It was decided to hold the next meeting at the residence of Rev. J. Adam, No. 118 East Second street, on the Second Tuesday of November.

A CONDUCTOR IN MEXICO.

His Democratic Soul Cannot Stand

Its Free-silver Regime. The following letter is published in the Billings (Mont.) Gazette, and is dated at Rascon, Mex., August 22. It was written by J. R. Condit, a railroad conductor running out of Rascon, to a fellow-conductor in Billings, A. E. Anderson, and was not penned for publication, but as the impost expression lication, but as the inmost expression of the writer's mind. Mr. Condit is an old friend of Agent H. B. Sherman of the Santa Fé road in Pasadena, and Mr. Sherman says that up to the time he went to Mexico he was the staunchest kind of a Democrat. Having seen a practical illustration of the workings of free silver, however, he has become a strong advocate of the election of McKinley. The letter is as follows:

"I received your letter of the 15th inst. today, and as I have a few moments to spare I hasten to answer.

"In the first place this money question is too deep for me, and I cannot for an instant imagine what the outcome will be if the United States comes out for free and unlimited coinage of lication, but as the inmost expression tion is too deep for me, and I cannot for an instant imagine what the outcome will be if the United States comes out for free and unlimited colnage of silver. No country has ever prospered under it, but possibly America is powerful enough to stand alone upon this question and experience no bad results, but I doubt it.

"As you may have heard around about the clubs, I have always been a Democrat, but, my boy, if I was in the United States in November, McKinley would get my vote.

"Mexico. with its free silver, is lesson enough for me, and I sincerely hope that I will never live to see the American workingman vote himself down to the level of a laborer in Mexico.

"I sent to Joe Widmyer (editor and proprietor of the Glendive Independent) last week a table of wages of this country, and it alone should convince any thinking man that free silver is bad for them. It will reduce your wages as sure as the sun shines.

"My run is between Rascon and Tampico, 200 kilometers, or 125 miles, the same distance as from Clendive to Forsyth, Mont. For the round trip I receive $10. If I am then called to the States, or any other country on earth except South America, I exchange my money and get $53. While a freight conductor running from Glendive to Forsyth, same number of trips, gets $73.80, and they consider in Mexico that freight conductors on this division are paid too much—best-paid men on the system. Passenger conductors get $160 a month, or $82 in your country; engineers $6 a day, amounting to $3 in the States.

"A porterhouse steak, baked potatoes and wheat bread will cost you $2; Canadian club whisky costs 40 cents a drink.

"I have a pair of $4 American tancolored shoes, that I paid $11.50 for andian club whisky costs 40 cents a drink.

"I have a pair of $4 American tancolored shoes, that I paid $11.50 for Stetson, Duniap, Knox, or, in fact, any make of hats are $10.

"So, Gus, take my advice and vote for McKinley and you owe it to yourself to do all in your power to influence your friends to do likewise.

"I know their cry 'We must have a change, and if we do vote for Bryan it can't be worse than it is now,' but they don't know what they are talking about. The man who works for a living and casts his vote for free silver, thinking to better his condition, will live to bitterly repent it.

"Yours in P. F.," J. R. CONDIT."
